August 25, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Tree Removal San Antonio would like their customers and others in that part of Texas to know that they have just launched a completely new website. They are a company that's committed to giving their customers the best possible service and having an improved website is a part of that. The newly launched website has a look and feel that's totally different from the old one.

The company spokesperson, Carrie Huffman, says, "We are very proud of our newly launched website. A lot of input and hard work from everyone on our staff went into making it. It's something that we strongly felt we needed to do because as we had grown the old website simply was not growing along with us. Because of that, we decided to take the necessary steps to create an entirely new website. It's much different from the old one because of the hands-on approach we took with the design teams. That translated into having better tree services information on the website and it also makes the site seem more professional too. We are very pleased with the way the new website turned out and so far, our customers that have used it indicate that they feel the same way."

The newly launched website can be seen here at <https://www.sanantoniotreeremovals.com>. Huffman went on to say that they had several goals in mind when they created the new website. One of which was to create a website that was much more user friendly. She says that they accomplished this by doing such things as streamlining the dropdown menus and making the printed text on the pages much more concise. They also made contacting them easier by having that type of information found on just about every webpage and including a simple to fill out contact form on both the homepage and the "contact us" page. The company spokesperson also mentioned that the information on their services has been updated and a map showing their San Antonio location was added.

As their name implies, this veteran tree services provider specializes in taking down trees. Huffman stressed that tree removal is not something that any homeowner or business wants to attempt themselves unless they have the proper training and safety equipment. Each year in the United States improper tree removal accounts for many injuries, some extremely serious or worse, and also results in hundreds of thousands of dollars in property loss. She says they at Tree Removal San Antonio have crews that are well-trained and properly equipped to take down even the biggest trees safely. They are also fully licensed and insured in case a mishap should ever occur. The spokesperson added that for the reasonable prices that tree removal companies as they charge for this service, it's just not worth any untrained professional to take the risk of doing it themselves. She added that as a bonus they can often bundle other tree services to go along with felling a tree. That includes such things as cutting up the downed tree into firewood for the owner and grinding the leftover stump away so the area where the tree once stood is 100% usable again.

According to Huffman, other tree services that they provide include tree trimming and pruning, tree pest control, tree injections, and specialized fruit tree and palm pruning. The company even offers 24-hour emergency tree removal service for those times when a tree comes down on a home, a nearby power line, or is blocking a driveway and needs to be removed right away. She stated they will even have extra crews on standby when severe weather is in the forecast.

Huffman also reminded that their company is staffed by certified arborists and other tree professionals they are familiar with all of the species of trees that are commonly found in and around the San Antonio area. They always keep safety at the forefront and guarantee all of the tree services that they do. Those who want more information on this tree service in San Antonio can call them, send them an email, or fill out the "Request a Quote" form on the home page of the newly launched website.
