August 28, 2020 -
MoldStar Remediation, Atlanta?s best mold cleanup company, has announced a new blog post in their Mold Exposure series. The post discusses the symptoms and side effects of toxic mold exposure, as well as the root causes of mold infestation. The article titled ?Mold and Illness: Are You Getting Sick From Mold Exposure?? and is now live under the blog/resources of the MoldStar Remediation website.

With decades of experience in mold removal and cleanup in Atlanta, MoldStar Remediation separates themselves from their competitors in a number of ways. With certifications in Water Damage Restoration and Applied Microbial Remediation, the industry?s top rated indoor environmental accreditation body, the MoldStar team brings technical expertise and knowledge that very few mold remediation companies in Atlanta can match. The owner, Jeremy Shelton, also holds a certification as a Certified Microbial Consultant through ACAC, American Council for Accredited Certification.

An excerpt from the blog post reads ?Black mold poisoning is a form of mycotoxicosis which becomes prevalent when a person breathes in too many mycotoxins over an extended period of time. The symptoms can vary depending on the person and their amount of exposure, but typically tend to appear similar to the symptoms of the flu or common cold along with skin irritation. Less common symptoms can be fever, headaches or serious lung infections. Black mold exposure can worsen the symptoms of other respiratory conditions like asthma, COPD or seasonal allergies. Black mold is more harmful to children as their immune systems might not be fully developed yet.?

Homeowners located within Atlanta, Sandy Springs, Roswell, Marietta, or other surrounding Metro Atlanta areas suffering from toxic mold exposure are invited to speak with the MoldStar Remediation team to schedule a free consultation. Real Estate Agents, Plumbers, Home Inspectors, and other local service businesses or licensed tradesmen or tradeswomen are invited to reach out to the MoldStar team to be featured on the resources page.
