Clean Group Offers Commercial Covid 19 Cleaning in Sydney

September 08, 2020

SYDNEY, NSW - September 08, 2020 -
Clean Group, a company based in Sydney, NSW, Australia, has announced that they have a dedicated team of cleaners who were trained in a special cleaning and sanitisation procedure that can deal with viruses, bacteria, and common germs. They can perform a complete sanitisation and disinfection of a commercial building, including everything from floors, doors, door handles, lightboards, window sills, kitchens, bathrooms, and more, to ensure that all workers, stay safe against the Corona virus. They will also provide an electrostatic spray and virus shield for Covid 19 protection.

Suji Siv, owner and CEO of the Clean Group, says, ?We can truly keep your business safe through our effective cleaning and disinfection services. We are focused on providing the best possible quality of Corona virus commercial cleaning services to ensure that your offices will not be hampered by the virus and your workers will remain safe from the Covid 19 disease.?

There are a number of components of the Covid 19 cleaning services provided by the Clean Group. First, they provide an in-depth cleaning that includes wiping, sweeping, and mopping of the premises to achieve the best results. Their specially trained cleaners will use a corona disinfection process designed to kill germs, viruses, bacteria, and other microorganisms. They will ensure that commonly used items, such as mobile phones, telephones, and door knobs, are properly disinfected. They ensure the sanitisation of things like the switchboards, door handles, railings, lightboards, desks, bins, drawers, keyboards, phones, and computers, in the office to minimise the presence of the virus to protect both employees and clients.

To ensure maximum protection against the coronavirus, they offer electrostatic disinfection where surfaces are sprayed with electrically-charged disinfectant particles. The result is that the electrically-charged disinfectant gets wrapped on whatever surface it is sprayed on. This will work on various kinds of surfaces, such as walls, door handles, counters, and carpets. It has also been observed to work well with surfaces and touchpoints that have odd shapes, and includes areas that are difficult to reach. Electrostatic disinfection is fully compatible with a broad range of soft and hard surfaces and it will also prevent the growth of mould and mildew.

Studies have shown that electrostatic disinfection is the best procedure for preventing the spread of viruses, such as the common cold, H1N1, flu, and the coronavirus. The Clean Group team utilises a portable electrostatic spraying equipment with a particular hospital-grade disinfectant.

The commercial cleaners from Clean Group will be wearing personal protective equipment, which includes a mask, disposable gloves, and goggles. They will then spray various surfaces, such as office desks, seats, reception counters, and horizontal surfaces. The sprayed disinfectant is in the form of a mist so that it will not unnecessarily saturate the surfaces with moisture.

A number of factors make Clean Group uniquely more effective when it comes to commercial cleaning. These include the fact that they: have friendly customer service reps; have over 20 years of experience in the commercial cleaning business; have more than 50 dependable and hardworking cleaners; have excellent knowledge in the maintenance of retail stores, storefronts, and huge industrial warehouses; cater to more than 100 suburbs in NSW, Victoria, and Queensland; have vast experience in cleaning large gyms and fitness centres; are capable of complying with the strict cleaning requirements of large factories; can ensure germ-free hospitals and medical centres; can handle specialized cleaning programs for schools, day care centres, and universities; and can offer pressure cleaning and outdoor maintenance.
