Clean Group Announced Electrostatic Spray and Zoono Z-71 Virus Shield For Corona Cleaning

September 04, 2020

SYDNEY, NSW - September 04, 2020 -
Clean Group, a professional cleaning company specializing in office and commercial cleaning, announced that they combined the Electrostatic Spray and Zoono Z-71 Virus Shield in their cleaning services to provide complete coronavirus cleaning and protection at commercial services.

In their announcement, they claimed that when professionals will apply these treatments at offices and commercial places then it can stay active for 30 days and will keep killing germs and viruses for the same period. The treatment is the same type of virus cleaning treatments that are nowadays used by some of well-known Australia based companies including Woolworths, Qantas, and CBRE.

The company started providing these treatments because they realized how easily these viruses can be spread through hard surfaces and this transmission of the virus has actually become a threat to human and economic health. It is a great way to show the world that the company with two decades of experience is ready to adopt the current circumstances and also to cater most challenging cleaning needs which are required by the business houses these days.

Suji Siv, CEO and owner of Clean Group said that their Covid-19 cleaning services are a major add-on and upgrade from the types of treatments they use to provide at commercial places. Other than this adaptation, this fact also needs to be included that the Clean Group's cleaning team not only have practical experience of many years of commercial cleaning but they also go through various training programs conducted by both the company and the manufacturers of all the chemical and equipment suppliers.

This time to time training and continuous use of the products during the cleaning process teaches them how to implement the different types of commercial cleaning techniques efficiently and effectively. Suji Siv also added that these trainings are aimed at keeping their crew always prepared for the cleaning challenges and most businesses in-house cleaning crews are not trained for it.

They also informed that their coronavirus treatments are planned to not only deep clean the surfaces but also for coating the surfaces of even the most uneven surfaces in any commercial property. This treatment includes cleaning and coating of railings, door handles, light switches, window sills, toilet seats, doorknobs, and more. They will also clean and hygiene surfaces such as computer keyboards, telephones, switchboards, headsets, and chairs too.

The owner of the company further added that their thorough-out virus eliminating service also features some of the other cleaning steps that are part of their routine commercial cleaning process such as mopping, sweeping, dusting, and surface wiping.

This new virus cleaning treatment will be undertaken in two parts at first the basic cleaning process will be performed and then specialized Covid-19 Disinfection and Protection Shield cleaning will be performed. He also mentioned that this two-step process of cleaning will kill the viruses and it will also prevent the spread of viruses, germs, bacteria, and other surface contaminants.

Shiv also added that businesses who are getting coronavirus cleaning services because a few of their employees have known exposure to it don?t have to worry about, their crew members are already suited up in the top-notch personal protection gear and having all the skills, training, and knowledge to provide the best commercial cleaning services. They use safety gear which can be disposed of after completing the job thus there is no risk of spread. They also follow all the government guidelines to keep both parties safe.

One of their satisfied customers who hired Clean Group for Covid-19 cleaning service say, ?Ever since our factory workers first heard the news of the Corona Pandemic outbreak, they have been constantly concerned about them and their family?s safety and also requesting me to let them go home. Well, it seems to be an only available option for me, until I hired Clean Group for their Corona Sanitization service. They first cleaned the complete area then sanitized it too. They removed all the infectious viruses, bacteria, etc with the sanitizers. And after watching the process my workers are ready to work in my factory?

Shiv also mentioned that, ?As a special offer we will provide the COVID-19 Disinfection and Protection Shield Cleaning without charging any cost for new routine cleaning customers.?
