Window Company Announces Launch Of New Replacement Windows In Chicago

September 04, 2015

September 04, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Northfield, Illinois based Chicago Window Pros has announced a new replacement window designed for the upcoming winter months. The window is energy efficient and features a European tilt and turn concept.

Replacing windows is one of the most recommended ways of cutting down on energy loss in a home during the winter months because it allows homeowners to save on energy costs. Air that leaks in from the outside or heated air that leaks outside from indoors can cause a serious energy breach, which could cost homeowners hundreds of dollars over the winter months. Most home improvement experts agree that checking windows before winter arrives is critical.

Dan Gast, spokesperson for Chicago Window Pros, remarked, "We always urge our customers to check their windows prior to cold weather, just to rule out any air coming in from the outdoors."

The Chicago window replacement company states that the specs for the new window are available in a number of different configurations to meet the needs of various homeowners. Casement windows, picture windows, double hung windows, and sliding windows or sliding patio doors are all options.

The revolutionary European styled window has an AAMA wind load and air and water infiltration resistance that rivals those of commercial window ratings of C-100.

The company offers replacement windows or new home windows Chicago homeowners can use and states that they can help homeowners to determine if new windows are needed. "We can do a quick inspection that will tell us if air is coming into the home through old, worn out windows," states Dan Gast. "Replacing those old windows is the first step in saving money on energy bills during the hotter and colder months, as it keeps air conditioning and heating from escaping outdoors."

Founded nearly 65 years ago, Chicago Window Pros is an exclusive dealer of Lindsay Windows. The Chicago window company urges homeowners to check their windows during late summer and early fall to determine if replacements are necessary before cold winds return in the winter. More about the company, and how to check for air leaks around windows, can be seen on their website.
