Walla Painting would like to let both home and business owners know that they are still providing interior painting services and these can be done safely. They say that because of that, there is no good reason for people to postpone this painting task if they feel that painting the inside of their home or business is needed. The company assures its customers that they are diligently following CDC guidelines and taking all necessary precautions during these challenging times. Interior house painting will give any home or business a fresh new look. They also offer a wide variety of low VOC interior paint color choices; some of which are even thought to enhance people's moods. Walla Painting provides its reputable interior painting services to residential and business customers in and around the Carmel, Indiana area.

Jonathan Walla, the company owner, says, "We find that many people assume we are not doing interior painting projects at this time because of the threat of the spread of Covid-19. Rest assured that is not the case. Although we do have to distance ourselves from our customers more than we would like and take other precautions, we are still doing all sorts of commercial and residential interior painting jobs. As the weather in the Carmel area starts to slowly go downhill as winter fast approaches, it's the perfect time for you to call us and schedule the interior painting work that you need done.?

The company owner continued by talking more about the safety pre-cautions they are undertaking at this time when working on their interior painting projects. He says that his employees are doing such things as frequently washing their hands for twenty seconds at a time throughout the day and applying hand sanitizer after that has been done. They are also using sanitizing wipes on their equipment regularly and they will even use gloves and shoe covers if a customer requests it. Walla says that most important of all, they are urging employees to stay home if they are feeling ill. He says that their interior painting customers can also do their part by rescheduling the work if anyone in their household is experiencing flu-like symptoms and by taking advantage of such things as virtual consultations and doing bill paying by credit card over the phone.

According to Walla, those at the company are also excited about the wide array of interior color choices they are now offering. He says that among the most popular interior colors they are using now is grey and it has replaced beige as the dominant interior base color. He says that their customers are also selecting blue paints if they want a room to feel more peaceful and serene, yellow if they want a room to feel warm and cheery, and are even using orange in workout and activity areas because it supposedly helps people feel energetic and enthusiastic.

Walla Painting's services are also very highly regarded by those that have used them. J.G. states, "This is the second time we have used Walla. We are so impressed with their attention to detail. They do an outstanding job on trim, cabinetry, and patching and painting walls. Their painters are timely and polite and their prices are very reasonable. They do all they can to assure the customer is pleased with their work. We will definitely use them again. Thank you to John, Brad, and Cesar for a job well done!" This review was left on the company's Google Maps Listing where all 53 reviews there rate the company an impressive 5 out of a possible 5-stars.

The company owner added that whether they are doing residential or interior commercial painting for a customer, they work with that customer closely from start to finish to ensure the success of that painting project. Walla also reminded that they also do exterior residential and commercial painting, cabinet painting, kitchen refresh projects, and customers can even hire their painters for a day to do miscellaneous painting projects. Those who want to know more about the painting services that this 2010-2019 Angie's List Super Service Award-winning business does can call them, send them an email, or fill out the "request a quote" form on their website.
