

Reputable Decking Contractor Advises Against Putting Off Wood Balcony Repair San Diego

September 23, 2020

September 23, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Highly rated decking contractor, Best Rate Repair, advises that it's never a good idea to put off getting any type of balcony repair work done. This advice comes from them in the interest of both safety and resolving small repair issues before they become bigger and more expensive ones. They added that the higher a balcony is the more important this becomes. That's why they recommend that at the very least anyone who suspects their balcony needs a repair get it professionally inspected.

Jack, the company spokesperson, says, "If you live in San Diego County and you notice even the smallest problem with your balcony, you owe it to yourself and your family to call us right away to do an inspection for you. It's always better to err on the side of caution whenever a balcony's state of repair comes into question. When you call us for an inspection you will get that inspection done by one of our crew leaders that have many years of balcony and deck construction experience under their belts. We are also the only California deck and balcony contractor that is certified by the North America Deck & Railing Association (NADRA). These inspections are always free and will give you the peace of mind that you need that your balcony is structurally sound and ok to use. If we do find any concerns during that inspection, we will discuss the remedy for that problem with you and give you a detailed and accurate estimate for the work."

Jack says that if someone calls them for a balcony inspection, they will take a good look at several things. This includes checking for rot, soft spots, joist abnormalities, hanger issues, and other factors that may impact a balcony's structural integrity. He says they will also look for signs of insect infestation and erosion that might compromise a balcony's support structure. They will even look for problems that are caused by the encroachment of trees and other plants. Jack says that their knowledgeable decking techs leave no stone unturned when it comes to their balcony inspection services.

The company spokesperson added that if they do find a problem during a balcony inspection, they will know exactly how to resolve it. Their balcony services include Building & Safety Code Assessments, New Wood Balcony Builds, Partial Wood Balcony Repairs, Wood Rot and Termite Damage Repairs, Balcony Design & Redesign, Wood Balcony Refinishing, Staining, Sealing, and Cleaning. Jack noted that they also work with a variety of balcony materials. This includes Cedar, Redwood, composite boards, pressure-treated wood, and several different natural hardwoods. He stated that they not only provide their balcony services to homeowners, but they also work directly with HOAs, commercial property managers, apartment building managers, contractors, and realtors.

This deck and balcony repair company's work is also very highly rated by those that have used their services. An example of that is this 5-star review that was posted to Yelp.com. In it, John S wrote, "Great experience and workmanship from Best Rate's crew members: Mike, Danial, and Robert. The trio remediated wood damaged and dry rotted decking, fascia, and other structural components. They completed the project ahead of schedule. Their daily on-time arrival, attention to detail, project updates, and overall professionalism couldn't have been better! I highly recommend Don Scouten and the rest of the Best Rate professionals for your San Diego wood repairs!" Not only are the company's services looked upon favorably on Yelp, but they also have the best possible rating of A+ from the local better business bureau and have many recommendations for their services on Angie's List too.

Jack mentioned that their customers also love the guarantee that they give on all of their new balcony builds and their balcony repair projects. This is a 12-month no questions asked warranty on their workmanship. He added that they also carry a million dollars in liability insurance and carry all the required worker's compensation amounts too. The company spokesperson also said that those who want more information on their wood balcony repair San Diego services can call them, send them an email, or fill out the contact form on their website's homepage.
