Accidents can be devastating experiences that in turn cost the victims huge sums of money for treatment. Insurance may cover some of the expenses, but victims still tend to find that they would have to pay a large part of the expenses out of their own pockets. Some might choose to settle their injury claims with their insurance companies as quickly as possible but the firm cautions that this may only lead to them receiving a settlement that is far below the value they deserve.

Personal injury settlements take many factors into account, such as the current and future costs of medical treatment, long-term or permanent injuries suffered, lost wages and the suffering of the victim. Insurance adjusters may make victims accept quick settlements that undercompensate them in one or more of these factors. If they accept the settlement and sign a release, they will no longer have the rights to pursue more claims against the people at fault for the injuries.

Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. makes it their mission to see that their clients do not make this mistake. Their combined experience of over 350 years and their skills allow them to properly assess their clients? claims for the true value they are due. Furthermore, they will not let insurance companies bully their clients into accepting undervalued settlements. With the aid of Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C., accident victims can rest assured that they will receive the proper settlement while they focus on their recovery. The firm can handle a wide variety of personal injury claims. They regularly take on cases involving automobiles, for instance, such as car accidents, motorcycle accidents, bus accidents, commercial vehicle accidents and pedestrian accidents. Every year, around 150,000 injuries are recorded in association with car accidents. Most serious and deadly crashes are caused by the negligence of drivers, who are cited most often for impairment, speed, reckless driving and more.

Similarly, Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. can assist clients with workplace accident cases as well. Victims of workplace accidents are usually left wondering when they can return to work, how they are going to pay off their medical bills and whether their employer will engage in fair negotiations regarding their compensation. The firm can resolve these challenges on behalf of their clients, and their expertise extends to many other types of cases in addition to automobile and workplace incidents. This includes bicycle accidents, slip-and-fall accidents, defective products, medical malpractice, dog bites, nursing home abuse, construction accidents and so on.

This is evident in the reviews they receive from former clients. Danielle S. says in a testimonial published on the Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. website, ?Marjorie was awesome! Being that this was my first car accident, she was able to calm down my frustration and get the ball rolling with my case. We spoke frequently, and any questions that I had were answered promptly. She was also very frank about the process and didn't sugar-coat anything, which I can appreciate. Working with the firm has made the overall process very easy when dealing with a car accident. I would recommend this office to anyone in the future.?

In another testimonial on the firm?s website, Leon S. says, ?Mr. Richardson was so understanding and completely sympathetic. Very professional and amazing. Mr. Murdoch was completely on top of every situation. I can call him with any question, and he would get an answer. Andrea was totally awesome too, just the most amazing team. They are all rock stars. Mr. Richardson is the man, he tried to go above and beyond more than I can ask. I cannot wait to meet them and thank him personally. These are the most professional people that I have ever dealt with; very caring, understanding and empathetic. What a great firm! They really care about the client, and that means a lot, especially when you?re going through everything. They really care and try to do the best for you.?
