September 11, 2015 -

Wyomissing, Pennsylvania based company Black Diamond Financial Group has released a correction to a prior press release. The original release, which is found at <http://www.pressadvantage.com/story/3074-retirement-planning-expert-announces-free-educational-online-webinars>, stated the company was founded in 1989, when in actuality, the company was founded in March 2012.

The original release announced educational online seminars offered by the company and in information about the company, the wrong date of establishment was accidentally given. Edward Sep, retirement income planning expert and owner and CEO of Black Diamond Financial Group, stated that, "We just wanted to correct the typo and let everyone know the true date that our company was established. It was a simple editing error that just wasn't caught before the release went out."

In the original release, two free seminars titled How to Maximize Your Retirement Readiness and Social Security: What You Don't Know Can Hurt You were announced and offered free to the public. The sessions are designed to assist those who are planning for retirement in ensuring that they are completely ready to live financially independent.

According to a survey conducted by Bankrate.com, 36 percent of all Americans of working age are not saving for retirement. The survey shows that among consumers aged 50 to 64, more than one quarter have not even begun to save for their retirement, and these are consumers who are less than 10 years away from retirement age.

"I have pursued a singular mission to develop retirement income plans to help clients ensure their 'golden years' are just that, truly golden," added Ed Sep. "This process is to assist them with creating an income stream for life!"
