Clean Group Announces COVID Disinfecting and Sanitising Services For Businesses in Sydney

September 21, 2020

SYDNEY, NSW - September 21, 2020 -
Clean Group, an Australia-based commercial cleaning agency, announces its new range of premium and safe COVID disinfection & sanitising services for businesses in Sydney. The service is being offered through the company?s new technology, called Defence Shield. Under this service, their cleaners perform complete disinfection of a surface or area using an Electrostatic Spray along with Zoono Z-71 Surface Sanitiser. The process, when applied by professionals under proper guidelines, can kill up to 99.99% germs from the infected surfaces with up to 30 days of protection guarantee. Besides COVID-19 cleaning, Clean Group also provides a range of generic commercial cleaning services such as office cleaning, medical cleaning, restaurant cleaning, carpet cleaning and others.

Suji Siv, Clean Group?s owner and CEO, says, ?Now that the coronavirus pandemic is coming to an end and people are ready to re-open their businesses around the city, we intend to help them maintain a safe & virus-free facility for their workers and customers through our unique and highly effective COVID sanitizing services. Any business of any size or type can hire our service for complete disinfection and sanitising of their premises in Sydney. For our routine cleaning customers, the first service is free. To schedule an appointment, contact the team today.?

Clean Group?s Defence Shield technology is the same that is already being used by many big companies across Australia and the world for their sanitising needs amid the COVID-19 pandemic. All these companies understand the seriousness of the situation and the importance of keeping their premises clean in order to protect the health safety of their workers. They are using these advanced COVID cleaning techniques and recommend the same to others. Clean Group, being one of the oldest and most experienced cleaning agencies in Australia, is committed to providing the latest and most effective cleaning solutions to its clients and therefore now uses the Defence Shield technology to provide maximum virus protection to businesses in Sydney and surrounding areas.

In addition to using the most brilliant and best-in-industry cleaning techniques, Clean Group also provides the best quality service with each of their projects. Their cleaners have years of experience in commercial cleaning for Australian businesses plus they are regularly trained in advanced cleaning techniques and solutions to ensure the best results for their clients. During their training, the cleaners are taught to best implement these techniques for the desired results and how to pay attention to detail while cleaning a property, among other things. Besides that, Clean Group has the policy to use only safe & eco-friendly solutions, preferably made organically, which help achieve great cleaning results while protecting the health of people.

The COVID cleaning and disinfection treatments of Clean Group involve basic cleaning first and then complete coating of infected surfaces with the company?s highly effective Zoono Z-71 sanitiser solution using the electrostatic spray. The use of electrostatic spray ensures that the solution reaches everywhere, including unreachable areas and corners of the surface and kills all the germs, bacteria and viruses, providing up to 30 days of complete virus protection. The areas and surfaces that are disinfected under this process include doorknobs and handles, light boards & switches, lift buttons, hand railings, toilet seats, phone receivers, tabletops, kitchen tops, computer keyboards and screens, chairs and other furniture items.

Before the application of the sanitiser, an area must be properly cleaned to remove any dirt or dust from the surface. This is why Clean Group?s COVID disinfection service is preceded by routine commercial cleaning, which involves the sweeping, mopping and wiping of all surfaces. Once the surfaces have been properly cleaned, the COVID sanitiser solution is applied in order to kill the viruses and prevent the spread of infection.

While cleaning a property for COVID-19, their cleaners take all the possible safety measures, from using disposable hand gloves to wearing masks and maintaining social distancing. Also, for the cleaning of properties where coronavirus cases have been reported, their cleaners use PPE suits along with other personal protection gear in order to maintain the safety of themselves and others around them. The safety gear and all disposable items used by the cleaners during the process are immediately disposed of after one use. Also, their cleaners bring their own solutions and equipment, thus avoiding the need to buy or use shared equipment to further limit the contamination.

?As a special offer: the first COVID-19 Disinfection and Protection Shield Cleaning is free for new routine cleaning clients,? says Suji Siv while introducing the service.

Companies and local offices looking to get their premises cleaned and disinfected for COVID-19 can visit their website https://www.clean-group.com.au/ and request a quote by filling out the request form.
