October 05, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Portland Upholstery Specialists, a company in Portland, Oregon that specializes in upholstery and furniture restoration for residents of Portland and surrounding areas, has announced that they have launched their new website. The new website ensures that site visitors will find it easy to find what they are looking for, and that it will be mobile responsive, which means that it will be properly displayed in mobile gadgets, such as smartphones and tablets.

A spokesperson for Portland Upholstery Specialists says, "We're happy to announce that we have a new website. This means that site navigation will be easier and our site can be properly displayed on mobile gadgets."

He adds, "Portland Upholstery Specialist is comprised of master craftsmen with artistic flairs. We are more than capable of helping our clients select the appropriate fabrics and listen to their inner guidance while choosing patterns and colors. Take a look at our digital portfolio to view the breadth of our work. We'd be happy to provide you with a list of commercial and residential references. Clients praise us for our attention to detail, soft skills, high level of professionalism and craftsmanship. Book an appointment for a free consultation and estimate."

They provide residential and commercial reupholstery services. For instance, those who have old chairs, loveseats, sofas, and cushions can have them restored back to their former glory. The company stocks a lot of high-quality padding and premium textiles that they can use for repairing furniture. They can bring back the original flair and artistry of antique chairs, sofas, ottomans or loveseats by using vintage inspired fabrics. They have thousands of patterns, colors, textures, and fabrics to choose from.

Portland Upholstery Specialists may also provide custom furniture. It should be noted that coming up with a custom piece of furniture is a collaborative work by the client and the designer. They work together in choosing the texture, colors, fabrics, patterns, and cushion quality.

They can also provide custom cushions, which offer the advantage of having cushions that are adapted to the unique shape of the home. For instance, if the home has a uniquely shaped window, the window seats can be shaped in such a way that they are suitable to the shape of the window. Portland Upholstery Specialists works with local upholstery suppliers in Portland that have a wide range of fabric swatches. They have a wide range of materials to choose from, such as rugs, window treatments, and wall coverings.

There are a number of reasons why people may want to reupholster their furniture. Basically, reupholstery is a cost-effective way of extending the life of furniture. It is also a better option than throwing away furniture that is no longer fashionable or those that the homeowner is already tired of having.

Reupholstering also allows homeowners to ensure that their furniture are eco-friendly. It can reduce a person's environmental footprint because instead of throwing away furniture, they can simply have their old furniture reupholstered to make them look like new again.

And finally, reupholstering is a way to enhance the value of furniture and increasing their durability. For instance, technologically advanced stuffing may be used to boost the value and durability of furniture.

Portland Upholstery Specialists is made up of master craftsmen and women who are creative people that can help clients with their texture, color, textile, and pattern selection to enhance their old furniture. They can also work directly with the interior designer or architect of the client to bring the client's vision to life. They have more than 10 years of experience, which means that they are capable of providing excellent upholstery for both residential and commercial clients. They are fully insured and bonded as a provider of upholstery and furniture restoration services in the state of Oregon.
