

Local UPS Shipping Store in Naperville Shares Upcoming Changes in their Industry

October 01, 2020

October 01, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Naperville, IL ? The Boxes Etc., a local UPS shipping store in Naperville, is reviewing upcoming changes in the shipping industry that could impact shipping prices. Looking ahead to the holiday season, FedEx, UPS and the US Postal Service have recently announced that they are tacking on new fees in preparation of an exceptionally busy year.

With a major rise in home shipments, some shipping carriers are implementing holiday surcharges to take advantage of this increase to set more lucrative price points. FedEx and UPS are no strangers to holiday surcharges; however, this year's seasonal rate increases will be higher than that of previous years. For the first time, the US Postal Service has decided to implement these rate changes as well. Fortunately for the average customer, these added surcharges will only apply to those customers shipping large volumes of packages for home delivery such as major retailers. Experts are predicting that there will be more emphasis on shipping to package drop-off locations as a result of the added surcharges this year.

With the frequent changes being made within the shipping industry, local shipping stores like The Boxes Etc. are committed to monitoring new trends in order to provide the best services at the best prices. The Boxes offers a wide variety of packaging and shipping services including Naperville package receiving services. Their expert staff understands the meaning of customer care and works hard to ensure a smooth and fast experience for their customers.
