October 05, 2020 -
Westchester County, New York - New York divorce law firm Juan Luciano Divorce Lawyer is excited to announce a new service area in Westchester County to serve the needs of residents in White Plains, Yonkers, and the surrounding Westchester County areas in matters of divorce and family law.

Mr. Luciano has been practicing divorce and family law in New York City and Manhattan since 2005 and just recently added the Bronx to his service area. He is known for his compassionate approach toward his clients and his aggressive strategies in the courtroom. The Westchester County divorce lawyer is excited to be able to expand his service area.

?Each family brings its own level of complexity to the table. I think I lend a calming influence to families in the midst of turmoil and I wanted to offer my services in multiple areas of New York in the hopes that my clients understand how a collaborative approach can serve them better than an antagonistic one,? Mr. Luciano explained.

Juan Luciano Divorce Lawyer has served New York City with a commitment to his clients that goes beyond the typical divorce lawyer. The New York divorce attorney has always believed that the most talented lawyers are able to go beyond the legal and financial concepts to act as a guide and advocate for their clients and their families.

Although he believes mediation and negotiation to be the best way forward when a couple can agree on important matters concerning their assets and their children, he understands that by the time a couple has gotten to his office, that ability may no longer be there. When negotiation is no longer possible and a contested divorce is the obvious solution, he brings out the aggressive litigator to ensure that his client is getting the best legal representation possible.

?It?s hard to mediate hostility,? he said. ?There are so many ways that a divorce can impact the future of a client, both financially and emotionally. When negotiation has broken down and no longer an option, as it happens in many divorces, it then becomes my job to aggressively seek the best options for my client in court, especially in the case of high-stakes divorces. High-conflict divorces are not every lawyer?s cup of tea but the sense of accomplishment you get after you have represented a client to the best of your ability in these scenarios is extraordinary.?

Mr. Luciano attended State University of New York at Buffalo School of Law and achieved his Juris Doctor in 2004. He has been representing clients since then in matters of divorce, mediation, spousal support, child custody and support, prenuptial agreements and other family law matters. He opened his own practice in 2013. Mr. Luciano is looking forward to serving clients and families seeking a top divorce lawyer in Westchester County
