Office Cleaning Commercial Cleaning Sydney Introduces New Medical Cleaning Program for Hospitals & Care Centers in Australia

October 13, 2020

October 13, 2020 -
Office Cleaning Commercial Cleaning Sydney, a leading provider of professional commercial cleaning services in Sydney (https://www.officecleaningcommercialcleaning.com.au/), recently announced its new medical cleaning program intended to help local hospitals and healthcare centers ensure safe and specialized cleaning of their premises. The program covers basic cleaning along with complete disinfection and sanitising of a place with the aim to remove bacteria, germs and all other pathogens.

With the COVID-19 around, hospitals and medical centers in Sydney are getting more careful about who they hire as their cleaner. Clearly, not every regular cleaner can provide the level of safe & deep cleaning as needed in a medical facility. This kind of cleaning must only be performed by trained professionals who can deal with the pathogens and prevent the cross-contamination while ensuring the health safety of workers, patients and other people in the facility. Office Cleaning Commercial Cleaning Sydney?s medical cleaning program offers just that.

Certified: Office Cleaning Commercial Cleaning Sydney offers a comprehensive, specialized medical cleaning program that is far superior to regular cleaning and is designed to offer advanced services including coronavirus cleaning. Backed by the company?s huge cleaning industry experience and a strong team of trained medical cleaners, this program addresses all kinds of cleaning needs of medical facilities like hospitals, clinics, laboratories, healthcare centers, dental clinics, and physiotherapy centers. The program is based on the safe cleaning practices suggested by the World Health Organisation (WHO) and involves the use of state-of-the-art COVID cleaning technology approved by the Therapeutic Goods Administration (TGA). The cleaning products and equipment used by their cleaners are certified-safe and eco-friendly.
