October 21, 2020 -

Buzz?s Bee Removal of Dunwoody is the newest pest control company on the block. They just opened last week and have already helped hundreds of families and business owners. The company offers a wide variety of services and their team of exterminators are professionally trained to do the job. Their team has years of experience and know how to treat any pest infestation they are faced with.

They specialize in stinging pests so they offer bee removal, wasp extermination, and hornet extermination. These services are fast, affordable, and reliable. Their team will first arrive at the target location and locate where the pests are building their home. They identify the pests and then generate a customized plan of attack to treat the infestation in the best way possible. They do not use generalized treatments because they don?t want to sacrifice the quality of their services.

Once they locate the hive or nest, they will completely remove any pests from the property. They do this quickly and safely so that more damage isn?t inflicted and to minimize the risk of someone getting stung. If there is a honey bee problem, they will use their non-lethal services to relocate the bees to a local beekeeper. There, they can continue to make honey and pollinate the environment. The president of Buzz?s Bee

Removal said in a recent interview, ?Honeybees are extremely important for the health of our planet. Unfortunately, they are suffering from colony collapse disorder. To help protect our little buzzing pals, we are offering harmless relocation services for any honey bee infestation. Our team will safely relocate the bees and their hive to a local beekeeper where they can live happily without bothering anyone else or causing any more damage.?

After they remove all of the pests from the property, they will perform prevention methods to guarantee that pests don?t try to return in the future. Most pest control companies will skip over this part. A representative of the company said, ?It is crucial to perform these preventative measures. Most species of bees and wasps like to return to where their original home was each year. They continually grow their colony and will build multiple hives or nests around the same area. In order to prevent this, the area needs to be properly repaired and sanitized so that the pests don?t recognize it as where their home once was.?

Buzz?s Bee Removal of Dunwoody is open from 8 am to 5 pm every day. People should contact their professionals if they think they have a stinging pest problem. These types of pests can be very dangerous and, in some cases, fatal. Their team can be contacted by phone or on their website at https://www.buzzsbeeremoval.com/service-areas/dunwoody-georgia/.
