October 30, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Total Quality Water Damage Repair just opened their doors a few months ago and has already helped thousands of homeowners and business owners in Colorado Springs. The company offers a variety of restoration services that are available to locals 24/7. This offers protection no matter when people realize there is damage on their property. They guarantee complete satisfaction on every job and also offer future protection from further possible damage.

Their team of technicians are highly trained and go to workshops and seminars every year in order to stay up to date on the most advanced methods of restoring property damage. Speed is important for most damages like water damage and mold growth so they act quickly in order to effectively repair the damage area back to pre-disaster condition.

The company is mostly known for their water damage restoration services and mold prevention services. These services consist of water extraction, damage restoration, and area sanitization. They recently just expanded their service line in order to help more people with a wider variety of things. Just last week they started offering storm damage cleanup and repair, fire and smoke damage repair, and sewage backup repair.

The president talked a little bit about these new services in a phone interview with the local news station earlier this week, "We are happy to be able to protect this community from water damage and mold damage for as long as we have been. We wanted to add another layer of protection to the local residential and commercial properties by adding new services. These new services are going to better protect people against storm damage, fire and smoke damage, as well as sewage backup problems."

The company has a ton of great reviews online for their services and their new restoration protection is getting a lot of popularity as well. Water damage and mold growth should be taken care of as soon as it is noticed in a home or business. This creates unsafe living conditions and work environments. If anyone in Colorado Springs is in need of reliable restoration services, they should contact Total Quality Water Damage Repair today.
