

Experts Announce That Businesses Need Social Media For Both Traffic And Ranking

September 11, 2015

September 11, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

On Time Website Traffic, a business in Atco, New Jersey, which has been providing SEO services to various clients for several years now, wants to provide a stronger focus on social media, explaining how this is vital for both traffic and ranking. They want business owners to take into consideration just how important social media actually is.

"Social media offers a great way to build a website up in a very diverse way," says Marcus Brown and support team from On Time Website Traffic. "Additionally, it enables businesses to do so in a very economic way, particularly when using our services. Effectively, we do all the heavy lifting that would make a difference with regards to SEO, allowing our clients to focus on the stuff that matters to them."

Studies have shown that On Time Website Traffic is correct in their vision on the importance of social media. Some of the things that matter for the search engines recently is that websites are mobile friendly and that they focus on local traffic. These are two things that can easily be achieved through social media, as they are all mobile friendly and allow businesses to link to their local area.

Furthermore, customers use social media for everything: they look up company reviews, find out where businesses are and use it to access their customer services. People simply no longer pick up the telephone and will only actually go in store when they have exhausted all their online options.

"Being on social media is vital to the success of any organization, not just in terms of what Google wants, but also in terms of what the customer wants," adds Marcus Brown and support team. "We really encourage businesses to act now, so that they have a chance to grab a position of authority and online dominance by striking while the iron is hot."

On Time Website Traffic offers a number of different packages for customers to choose from. In so doing, they are able to work with any type of business, regardless of their specific online needs. Those who need more information may want to click here.
