Palisades Mazda, a Mazda dealership serving NYC along with Rockland, Bergen, and Westchester Counties, has urged car enthusiasts to consider the Mazda Cx 5 as a viable option against the competing cars in its class such as the Honda CR-V, Toyota RAV4, and Subaru Forester.

The dealership requests those looking to purchase a new car to consider test-driving a 2020 Mazda Cx 5 at its Central Nyack location. The dealership claims that choosing between a Mazda Cx 5 and its competitors comes down to personal preference. However, it goes on to say that those looking to get the most for their money along with a subjectively smoother and refined ride, should consider getting a Mazda Cx 5. The dealership compares the Mazda Cx 5 with multiple cars in its class.

In the first head-on comparison, the dealership sizes up the Mazda CX-5 vs Honda CR-V. The 2020 Honda CR-V boasts a 1.5L turbo I-4 engine and comes with a 2-speed transmission. On the other hand, the 2020 Mazda CX-5 is powered by a 2.5L turbo I-4 engine and has a 6-speed transmission. According to the Mazda dealership, this advantage gives the Mazda the edge in power and efficiency.

In the second comparison, the dealership looks at the Mazda CX-5 vs Toyota RAV4. The 2020 Toyota RAV4 comes in at $33,055, holds a 14.5-gallon fuel tank, and has its torque measurement coming in at 184 lb-ft. The 2020 Mazda Cx 5 on the other hand, comes in at $31,710, holds a 15.3-gallon fuel tank, and has a torque measurement of 186 lb-ft. According to this comparison, the dealership claims the Mazda Cx 5 has an edge when it comes to being more affordable while at the same time sporting a larger gas tank with more power since it has a higher torque measurement.

In the final head to head comparison, the dealership investigates the Mazda CX-5 vs Subaru Forester. The 2020 Subaru Forester boasts 176 hp of power, a towing capacity of 1,500 lbs, and a torque measurement of 182 lb-ft. The 2020 Mazda Cx 5 comes in at 187 hp of power, a towing capacity of 2000 lbs, and as previously mentioned, a torque measurement of 186 lb-ft. The dealership claims these number makes the 2020 Mazda Cx 5 a more powerful alternative to the 2020 Subaru Forester.

Palisades Mazda has a selection of new and used vehicles, including the entire Mazda lineup including the Mazda3 Sedan, Mazda3 Hatchback, Mazda6, CX-3 SUV, CX-5 SUV, CX-9 SUV, and the Mazda MX-5 Miata coupe. The website offers an online car inventory for customers to browse the different car models from the comfort of their homes.
