North Edmonton KIA has already started talking about the 2021 KIA models that are about to arrive at this reputable Alberta dealership. One of the most anticipated of those cars is the long-awaited arrival of the Kia Soul PHEV. This is the electric-powered version of one of their best-selling car models. There were originally some delays with the Kia Soul PHEV?s arrival because the extravagant batteries that power it were in short supply worldwide. This electric version of the surprisingly spacious and hatchback equipped KIA Soul is not only widely expected to be a big seller in the upcoming year, but also gives those that purchase it a very environmentally-friendly car. Those who want a safe and comfortable no-pressure shopping experience with North Edmonton KIA can even conveniently shop for their new Kia Soul PHEV online; more details on how this works can be seen here https://mgyb.co/s/lCSYS.

Robert Aaltonen, North Edmonton KIA?s owner, says, ?When Christmas starts to approach, that also signals that our 2021 KIA models will soon be arriving. That?s a time that gets everyone at our dealership excited. Just like with our customers, we have now been hearing over the last several months what the 2021 models will bring with them, and soon we will get to see these features in-person. I myself am particularly excited to see and experience what the new Kia Soul PHEV?s have to offer. This is a KIA vehicle that has generated as much interest or more than any popular KIA model that?s about to arrive since I have been involved with this Manufacturer.?

The dealership?s owner went on to say that the KIA Soul PHEV will be this manufacturer?s first dedicated plug-in hybrid to be sold in Canada. He said that just like its sister vehicle the gas-only powered KIA Soul, they expect to offer advantages over similar cars in its class thanks to its longer range and its generously sized interior. Aaltonen also acknowledged that they expect to be carrying the KIA Soul PHEV in two different versions which include premium and limited models. Each will come with such features as front-wheel drive, performance tires, 4-Wheel Disc Brakes, tire pressure monitor, Aluminum Wheels, Plug-In Electric Fast Charge motor. He said that an upgraded interior and a larger engine size are the biggest differences between the Premium and higher-priced Limited KIA Soul PHEV models. Both models will also come with the standard KIA SOUL safety package that has been applauded by those in the auto industry.

Other KIA cars that the owner expects to create a buzz at the dealership at the end of this year include the 2021 KIA Sorento. It was even featured here in another press release on the dealership that can be seen here at https://www.pressadvantage.com/story/38926-kia-dealer-edmonton-proudly-unveils-2021-kia-sorento. Aaltonen says that the Sorento is always among the top-selling KIA vehicles each year. He says that it?s a popular midsize crossover that is so unique that it?s hard to put in a category with other vehicles in its class rating. Some of what customers can expect to get with the 2021 KIA Sorento include a more powerful base four-cylinder motor, a more stylish interior, and improved transmission. The company owner says that this popular model?s new off-road-oriented X-Line is expected to make its debut this year too.

According to the many reviews that have been left on this car dealership, people can expect to experience a pleasant car buying experience when shopping with them.
