Alpha Therapeutics, a CBD oil manufacturer, is selling products such as CBD healing balm, CBD oil, CBD oil soft gels, and CBD pain sticks

CBG is considered a precursor to CBD (cannabinoids), an umbrella name for natural compounds found in plants of the Cannabis genus. They are both non-intoxicating, unlike THC which is psychoactive. THC causes side effects such as increased heart rate, coordination problems, dry mouth, red eyes, slower reaction times, memory loss, and anxiety. Alpha Therapeutics says that its mission of offering patients superior pain mitigation and pain management benefits starts with the manufacture of a THC-free product. The label Broad Spectrum is used to signify there are all cannabinoids in the product except for THC. That prevents the person from feeling ?high? or impaired.

Research into CBD has shown it may be effective against a range of health issues such as seizures, anxiety, insomnia, psychosis, nausea, migraine, depression, chronic inflammatory pain, and chronic neuropathic pain. CBG has been shown to possibly be useful against inflammatory bowel disease, glaucoma, bladder dysfunction, Huntington?s disease, bacterial infections, and appetite loss. These benefits are known despite the fact that research into CBG for pain relief is scant.

Alpha claims to harvest plants that have high amounts of CBD to bring its customers natural, raw, healthy benefits for optimum relief of chronic pain. They also claim that CBG is expensive because they have to harvest the plant when it is young before it matures and turns into compounds such as CBD. This is because, essentially, CBG is a cannabinoid stem cell that provides an added level of pain relief. Alpha?s broad-spectrum products claim to use the raw plant, not a distillate. That means that Alpha does not filter or heat the plant since heat changes the plant properties.

They claim that Alpha products contain terpenes that are the building blocks of essential oils. They specifically use terpenes that demonstrate analgesic properties in clinical studies. Alpha products also claim to contain cannabis flavonoids that have shown in research to contain powerful antioxidants and anti-inflammatory properties. Alpha also claims to use a CO2 method to process the plant to ensure that the product is not filtered or heated in a way that could damage the plant. They claim it ensures the highest quality ingredients in every Alpha product to preserve the ?entourage effect.?

The company claims its products are formulated with high levels of both CBD and CBG which is important when dealing with chronic pain to get all of the raw plant benefits of cannabidiol. All Alpha CBD oil products are organically farmed, lab-tested, non-impairing, vegetarian, gluten-free, and non-GMO.

Alpha Therapeutics manufactures multiple products using organic CBG oil for pain relief. One such product is the Alpha Broad Spectrum Pain Stick that allows rubbing CBD and CBG right where the pain is. The Pain Stick absorbs quickly through the skin to give pain relief without THC. It is portable and easy to use. Another product in their repertoire is the CBD Soft Gel. Alpha 25mg Soft Gels allow the user to control how much they take with no THC. If 25mg relieves their pain, it can last them a full month. They are portable and easy to use. The listing claims they are perfect to throw in one's bag and to take on the go.

The company?s products have many glowing testimonials on its website. Sage Jordan says, ?Alpha CBD hit it out of the park! I no longer suffer from excruciating migraines. The doctors at alpha have been incredible. Thank you for allowing me to live pain-free.? Amile Bechard says, ?As a runner, I have aches and pains and sometimes sciatica from a herniated disc. Alpha takes off the edge and helps my body to repair and keep me on the road!? Atul Patel says, ?I suffer from arthritis and other autoimmune problems. Alpha is so subtle that halfway thru the day I realize that - hey, it worked all morning! Lately, I started taking it two times a day and I can get thru the entire day. Unbelievable stuff!?
