December 01, 2020 -
The Funeral Program Site says that their large variety of templates combined with their printing services offer a simple means for their customers to create a funeral program that nicely honors the life of someone who has passed away. This McKinney, Texas-based company even offers an all-inclusive service that covers everything from funeral program layout & design to printing the finished programs. The Funeral Program Site has been helping with the death care needs of funeral homes and the bereaved for over two decades now. In that time, they have become the industry leader in DIY funeral program templates, printed memorials, and personalized in loving memory keepsake products.

The company spokesperson, Carole Galassi, says, ?When you lose someone that?s a close family member, you may be tasked with certain responsibilities such as coming up with an appropriate funeral program. This will probably not be an easy time for you and other family members to fully concentrate on putting together a start to finish funeral program product. That?s OK because our services are designed to help guide you and simplify that task. Our quality funeral program printing takes your printed memorial and makes it into a hardcopy that becomes a tangible keepsake that you can distribute to all attendees at a loved one's memorial or funeral service. The funeral program printing services that we offer allow for various layouts and sizes and the finished printing can be done using a home printer, a local printing shop, or we would be more than happy to do that for you.?

Galassi went on to say that when a loved one is lost, they want to do everything they can to help plan a funeral service that not only celebrates the life a lost loved one lived but also helps others to remember the warmth and happiness they brought into the world. That?s why for those that are looking to create a funeral program, they have come up with a variety of options for them to choose from at The Funeral Program Site. She stated that by using their top-notch professional program printing services, they can help create funeral program templates that perfectly showcase the love and care that their customers have for a loved one that?s been lost. Their funeral program creation and printing services are all done in-house to provide their customers with the fastest possible turnaround. To get the finished funeral program product to their customers very quickly, print orders over $200 receive free 2-day FEDEX shipping, or this can be upgraded to special rate overnight shipping for the fastest possible delivery. The company spokesperson says that their printed memorials are available in both matte and high gloss finishes.

Galassi added, ?We are the largest manufacturer of printed memorials and have been servicing bereaved families and the death care industry since 1992. Rest assured, you are in good hands and we can get the job done perfectly for your needs. The proof is in our work!?

The company spokesperson went on to say that they are commonly referred to as a funeral template and memorial superstore because they are constantly doing such things as adding new and improved funeral program templates to their inventory. Many of these new template forms, which can easily be downloaded from their website, are made in a way that allows them to be customized. She says this is done so the finished funeral programs better mesh with the life of the lost loved one they serve as a remembrance for. Every one of their funeral program templates is designed to be respectful, creative, and touching. These new funeral program templates were even featured in a recent press release.

For those that would like more information on how The Funeral Program Site helps their customers design and print funeral programs, there is an embedded video on their website?s homepage which describes this process in more detail. Galassi also stated that those who live in the McKinney area, may also stop in and visit their store there in person.
