Spokane Valley, Washington-based dog training and day care center K9 Country Club (K9CC) is pleased to announce that they have been featured in a local magazine. K9CC bills itself as the Pacific Northwest's premier, all-in-one pet center, and they hope this recognition will help more dog lovers in their community discover their excellent services. More information about K9CC can be found at the following link: <https://k9countryclubspokane.com/>.

In the November 2020 issue of the Spokane Coeur d'Alene Living magazine, Megan Rowe writes about the K9CC in an article titled "K9 Country Club goes the extra mile" and then some "for furry friends." The article reads, "When Nick Lungu started K9 Country Club, located in Spokane Valley, he envisioned a one-stop shop for pet owners, and it's safe to say he's made it happen. The facility has what you might expect " animal boarding, daycare, training and grooming services " and a lot of other services you wouldn't expect under one roof. K9 Country Club has pet rehabilitation, which includes a hydrotherapy tank and Danette Roberts DVM " an onsite veterinarian capable of everything from shots to surgery, not to mention a full pet store with all the goodies you need to pamper your pets."

Nick Lungu of K9CC says, "I am very proud to say that K9 Country Club has grown to become everything I wanted it to be. Today, pets rule this place, and we care for them like they are our family. Whatever reason it is that your pet comes to K9CC for, you can bet that we will do everything to make your best friend our new best friend and provide them with everything they need."

While they do offer a variety of pet services, K9CC is particularly proud of their veterinary endeavors. Lungu says, "With on-staff veterinarian Danette Roberts DVM and her 20 years of experience at our side, we are able to truly take care of your pets. Personalized veterinary care is a cornerstone of our complete experience, and you can be sure that your pets will all be provided compassionate medical care tailored to their unique health needs."

K9CC's vet services include preventative care, microchipping, spaying/neutering, digital radiology, blood work, surgery, diet and nutrition and so on. The pet center boasts that, at K9CC, pets receive veterinary care with a mother's touch, an open ear, a loving heart and the knowledge and experience to provide the best care possible for all kinds of pets. The center's commitment to their work and overall ability to interact positively with pets has allowed them to become one of the most trusted pet caregivers in Washington. On the Google platform, they have a rating 4.1 out of 5 Stars (aggregated from more than 350 reviews). Diana Smith says in her recent 5-Star review, "My GS got groomed today, and the service was wonderful. Timber looked beautiful, and they made him feel very comfortable for his first official big boy grooming. Great staff too! Thanks a ton!?"

Mark Nadyuk's review shares, "I can't say enough praises about this place. My family and I have been bringing our dogs here for the last seven years and we have always experienced professionalism as well as kind and genuine service from Nick and his team. They have amazing staff. One of our dogs has gone through his boarding train program and stayed in their care for the entire five weeks. They were so good to him. While Tango was with them for training, we got constant updates, photos and even videos of him training and going to Nick's house for more socialization. We continue to recommend K9 Country Club to all of our friends and family."
