As a start, Nonna Rosa Italian Restaurant has Melenzane Rollatini, a stuffed eggplant filled with ricotta cheese, topped with basil, marinara, and mozzarella cheese. They also have gluten-free focaccia bread. Italian food lovers would also love their very healthy, Gnocchi Sorrentina - potato dumplings in a cherry tomato sauce with melted mozzarella.

For the main dish, Chef Peppe Gialone's version of Eggplant Parmigiana is also popular. The eggplant lightly fried, topped with marinara sauce and mozzarella, is a classic favorite for vegetarians who love the Italian taste. As for dessert, a homemade classic tiramisu made with Italian mascarpone cheese, imported ladyfingers, and espresso is a must, too.

This Bluffton, SC Italian Restaurant shares that apart from bringing Italian food to the area, they also want to share the Italians' love for food. That's indeed true as the restaurant's executive chef is an Italian himself. The restaurant's menu also originally came from a family restaurant in a small town called Pozzuoli, located on Italy's southern coast.

Though passed down through generations, Nonna Rosa's menu was able to retain the authenticity of the Italian cuisine they serve. The restaurant owners say, "We want our customers to enjoy authentic Italian food in a family atmosphere, the way Nonna Rosa would have done years ago in Pozzuoli, Italy! As they say in Napoli, "L'appetito vien mangiando la sete se ne va bevendo!" which means the appetite comes with eating, the thirst goes away with drinking."

Meanwhile, amid the pandemic, Nonna Rosa Italian Restaurant also remains committed to offering Okatie customers good food without compromising safety. The company provides a safe dining experience. The traditional Italian restaurant goes above and beyond to provide safe food and a secure, enjoyable dining experience for every customer they serve.

On top of that, Nonna Rosa Italian Restaurant Bluffton SC also delivers. They have created a special menu for their deliveries.
