Tarpy Plumbing Heating and Air Company is offering reliable HVAC services including AC repair, air conditioner installation, heater repair & installation, commercial HVAC, thermostat upgrades, and plumbing services.

The company says that heating and cooling account for roughly 48% of energy use in a typical home. Getting an air conditioner tuned up has shown to help avoid costly AC repairs in the future. The company says that some customers think that an AC tune-up is an unnecessary waste of home budget overhead. The company says that it is simply not true because having air conditioner maintenance can cut energy use by 5% to 15% providing an instant ROI. Annual tune-ups allow the AC to run easier which boosts their life span by about 40%. Regardless of these benefits, still, only about 42% of homeowners call professionals to perform routine maintenance leading to an earlier replacement, and higher utility bills.

An AC tune-up involves inspections, cleaning, and calibrating to ensure the AC is in proper working order and to guarantee the unit runs as efficiently as possible. Some steps taken to ensure that include checking the overall operation of the unit, checking the system for loose parts, vibrations, etc., lubricating the air handler blower, checking the flush system, checking pumps, lubricating the condenser fan motor, cleaning condensate drain lines, inspecting refrigerant level, cleaning and inspecting condenser coils, testing evaporator and heat exchanger, inspecting electrical wires, safety trips, and thermostat, replacing air filters, and running the system and adjusting for peak operating efficiency.

The contractors at Tarpy Plumbing Heating and Air Company can handle all of the heating and air conditioning repair needs including repair service for the heater, furnace, air conditioner, heat pumps, mini-splits, heat pumps, and air handlers. Its technicians are local, certified, insured, and have undergone a thorough training process before they service the client's HVAC unit. Tarpy Plumbing Heating and Air Company backs its air conditioning repair and heating repair services with a 3-month long guarantee. If the customer is interested in replacements they offer a one-year warranty for replacements as well.

Tarpy Plumbing Heating and Air Company will instantly send a local technician to the client's home upon asking for their services, to diagnose the problem they are facing, and to recommend solutions for their HVAC unit. With a small diagnostic fee for the visit, Tarpy's technician crew will repair the system in an hour. If the system is totally worn out, clients can also get a replacement at Tarpy, which they say is often the best solution. They have a CIS licensed and insured service technician crew for all air conditioner, heater, and ventilation needs, which also includes the repair of furnace or air conditioning units.

According to a review by Bob H., "I had to have my wall heater replaced so I called one other company and Tarpy. The other company came out first and gave me an estimate without taking off the cover and inspecting the heater. They said they could probably clean it and replace the pilot for $400 or put in a new one in for X amount of $. Alex from Tarpy came out and did a thorough inspection and found that the firebox had a hole burned in it and showed me where it had overheated. I ended up getting the cost of the estimate applied to a new heater and it was over $100 cheaper than the first estimate and the job was done quickly and professionally. Very happy with Tarpy."

According to another review by Neil H., "We were very impressed with Tarpy Heating and Air. They really seem to care for the customer. Our hot water heater broke and we woke up to cold showers which were miserable. That was on a Sunday. We called them immediately and THEY ANSWERED! One of the techs showed up the next day at 7:30 am and we had hot water an hour later. Absolutely premium service. We will definitely use Tarpy Heating and Air again and will highly recommend them. Thanks, guys."
