Pinnacle Pest Control has announced that they are using the integrated pest management (IPM) concept and green pest control in serving the needs of customers in Sacramento and neighboring areas. IPM ensures that the risk of harming people and the environment is minimized while getting rid of pest problems. The concept encompasses all aspects of pest prevention and control, including exclusion, inspection, and chemical and mechanical control methods that avoid as much as possible the use of environmentally sensitive chemicals. Instead of using the usual chemicals designed to kill pests, they would use chemicals with low toxicity and non-chemical methods.

The first thing they would do is conduct an inspection to determine why there are pests in a particular home or establishment. It could be that there are leftover food and there are gaps or holes where rodents and/or insects could get in. The solution they can provide is to create a barrier that would prevent the entry of bugs and make it difficult for them to live in that particular area.

Jim Lopez, President and CEO of Pinnacle Pest Control, says, "Our bonded, licensed, and insured pest technicians are experienced in getting rid of all kinds of pests, and they can be trusted in treating homes with the same level of care and dedication they would their own. And our service is guaranteed, which means if the pests return, we will come back and provide our services for free.?

For rodent control, they will provide three basic measures. First, they will trap and eliminate the existing rats and mice. Second, they will close all holes and possible entry points and then protect the whole perimeter of the home with baits and traps to avoid their re-entry. And third, they will restore the attic, decontaminate and deodorize the attic and other areas where rats and mice had established their nests.

Rodents living in the attic can cause problems for homeowners that may exist even after their removal. This is because they can carry parasites, such as ticks, mites and fleas. After the elimination of the rodents, these parasites may search for a new potential host, which include the people living in the home. Furthermore, the feces and urine of rodents accumulated in the attic can be dangerous for people and produce offensive odors. These odors may also attract new rodents. Thus, it is important to clean the area and restore to its previous uncontaminated condition. They will also replace damaged insulation with R38 insulation.

The attic pest removal services provided by Pinnacle Pest Control include the: removal of all contaminated insulation; vacuuming of all rodent droppings; sanitization of the attic; exclusion (closure of all entry points, vents replacement, screen replacement and roof repairs); replacement with R38 insulation; and rodent control (trapping).

Pinnacle Pest Control also offers termite infestation solutions. They will use orange oil, the oily substance found in orange peels, to control termites. They will inject orange oil into the infested wall area by applying a minimally invasive technique to maintain the integrity of the home. The orange oil will kill the termites and this will neutralize the area and prevent it from getting reinfested. The orange oil treatments have a two-year guarantee.

They also provide bed bug pest control services. First, they will use the most up-to-date technology in inspecting the room for detecting infestations. They will then apply environment-friendly heat treatment on the affected areas to kill the bed bugs and any eggs. And finally, they will inspect those cracks and crevices where bed bugs usually hide after feeding. They will treat all of those places to eliminate the bugs.
