a hit and run, mentions how doctors and the staff made the ambiance soothing and comfortable for them to ensure no-hassle treatment.

In their review, they write, "I was introduced to AIC from a fellow after I was involved in a hit and run. Since starting their therapy program, I can honestly say I feel great. They are extremely friendly especially the receptionist Stephaine, who greets me with a warming smile every morning I walk in. Dr. Miller is amazing at what he does, he got my back feeling like a brand new back lol. If you have been injured in a car accident, this is the place to go to get assistance."

Dr. Derrick Miller of the Nashville injury clinic explains the need for a patient-focused approach, "An accident that results in trauma impacts one physically as well as psychologically. When someone visits the clinic, they are already in pain. They are typically irritated and aching. A relaxing touch through words and soothing ambiance can make them feel stress-free and calm. As we talk through everything, patients develop a sense of trust, feel that they will be okay and that we are able to provide the help they need."
