December 18, 2020 -
A gonorrhea and Chlamydia test package offered at Express STD Testing.

Getting tested is the only way a person can know for sure if they are infected with a sexually transmitted disease. This is why Express STD Testing offers accurate STD testing services. These are private and anonymous STD processes that is designed to encourage people to get tested. The testing company has introduced a package that combines gonorrhea testing and chlamydia testing.

According to the company, ?Our Nucleic Acid Amplification test is cleared by the FDA. The test is a gold standard in the industry and is used to search for the bacteria that causes Chlamydia ? Chlamydia trachomatis, and the bacteria that causes gonorrhea ? Neisseria gonorrhoeae. This is one of the most accurate chlamydia and gonorrhea tests in the industry. You are just required to provide a small urine sample. This means you will not have to get undressed and go through the uncomfortable process of swabbing. With a specificity of 99.3% and a 99.8% sensitivity rate, our gonorrhea and chlamydia test is the most accurate you can get.?

On matters involving the right time to test the company said, ?Getting tested has no specific time, but now is the best time to get a chlamydia and gonorrhea test. If you have engaged in sexual contact with an individual whose status you do not know, you should get tested. Get tested after about 5 days of exposure and get tested after 2 weeks of treatment and 3 months later to confirm you have been cured.

?Since most STDs significantly increase the risk to other infections, it is a good idea to take our comprehensive STD test that tests for 10 common STDs.?
