December 21, 2020 -
Express STD testing is a professional online STD testing medical company that helps people get anonymous STD testing. Recently, the company has been including new testing services. They have announced that they will be providing an accurate hepatitis A test.

According to the site, ?Express STD Testing uses Hepatitis A blood tests that have been cleared by the FDA. Our hepatitis A test screens the blood for lgM antibodies. These are proteins the body produces to respond to viruses. If the test identifies these antibodies, it means that you have been infected. Our tests have a high accuracy rate with the specificity and sensitivity rates above 95%. We test for hepatitis A using a blood sample. This is because we get more accurate results with a blood test as compared to a urine test. This means that you will need to provide a small blood samples at the testing center. ?

The site also provides information about sTD and when the right time to get tested is. They said, ?It is important to take control of your sexual health through knowing your status. The best time to test for Hepatitis A is after the incubation period which means you will have to wait for about 2 to 7 weeks. If you suspect you have hepatitis A and have not been tested for the common STDs our expert doctors recommend taking our comprehensive STD test. This is because having one STD puts you at a greater risk of other STD infections.?
