The company provides services to anyone within a 30 mile radius of downtown Atlanta. Michael Sullivan, owner and CEO of the company, recently commented on the mobile service launch. He stated, "We know the urgency of having doors unlocked in a timely manner, which is why we've begun offering our services, which include friendly locksmiths and affordable prices." The services are mobile, which means that they will travel to where the consumer is, providing a wide range of services depending on what is required.
