While lawns decorated with colorful flowers and majestic trees increase curb appeal, if not cared for properly those trees, shrubs and flowers can become diseased or get damaged by bad weather. A diseased or damaged tree, if not seen by experienced arborists can potentially spread disease to other healthy trees nearby. Tree Service Experts Detroit Certified Arborists can analyze and properly diagnose diseased trees and offer solutions to bring them back to optimal health or recommend their removal.

Dead trees that may be too close to homes and buildings can pose many risks to property and people. They can attract pests that are looking to make the bark their new home. Pests, such as termites and ants, can and often do find their way into homes and wreak havoc. Whether they're a minor annoyance or the cause of structural damage to residences, these pests are a major problem that homeowners are sure to want to avoid.

In addition to serving as homes for pests, dead trees can be a hazard to humans. As a tree dies the fibers that make the wood strong and healthy decay leaving it vulnerable to breakage. Strong winds can snap weak branches or even knock over a dead tree. Falling branches can cause serious injury to people. The Certified Arborists at Tree Service Experts Detroit have the knowledge and can conduct dead tree risk assessments and provide solutions for customers.

Company Representative, Blanken Robert, put it this way. ?Our team of certified arborists are experts in their field. They can do complete risk assessments and provide solutions. While it is always our goal to save every tree we service, there are times when removal is necessary. In those cases, we will always use the most up to date and safest methods available.?

The arborists at Tree Service Experts Detroit are ISA (International Society of Arboriculture) certified.
