

New Marketing Agency For Contractors Launched

September 17, 2015

September 17, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Contractor Dynamics, a marketing company based in Brielle, NJ, has opened its doors to the public to provide online marketing services for the construction industry. By focusing on this particular niche, they believe they can better target their specific expertise. Full details on the company and its services can be seen at <http://contractordynamics.com/>.

"The construction industry has very particular needs in terms of how they find clients, as well as in terms of the type of clients they look for," says Joseph Hughes from Contractor Dynamics. "Because of this, generic marketing techniques don't always work on them. We have studied the specifics of the construction niche and have developed marketing techniques that work specifically on that area."

The company is able to achieve this through two specific services. First of all, they help to build custom websites. Contractor Dynamics does not believe in one size fits all solutions for any element of marketing, and this includes the website, which is essentially the starting point of any effort. A website is like a business' calling card and it must include all the information people are looking for when they search for a construction company.

The second element is fully on online marketing. "We believe that these are the two things that really matter within the construction industry," adds Joseph Hughes. "And our track record speaks for itself. We have helped many businesses in the industry gain online dominance and this has led to them receiving significantly more clients overall. While the construction industry delivers hands on services, the reality is that people now search even for these types of services online. We make sure that our clients get found that way."

Within their online marketing work, Contractor Dynamics helps their clients develop a full sales and marketing strategy. Included in this and integral to the website development element of their work, is search engine optimization (SEO). They also include the latest rules from Google in their work, including ensuring that their websites are fully responsive and locally optimized. Put together, this has produced great results for all of their clients, who have been leaving many positive reviews on the company's website.

###

For more information about Contractor Dynamics, contact the company here: Contractor Dynamics Joseph Hughes (732) 733-2390 joseph@contractordynamics.com 412 Higgins Ave. Brielle, NJ 08730"

Contractor Dynamics

Contractor Dynamics is a marketing agency dedicated to helping builders, contractors, architects, and remodeling contractors generate new business and increase revenue.

Website: <http://contractordynamics.com/>

Email: joseph@contractordynamics.com

Phone: (732) 733-2390

Powered by PressAdvantage.com