Midway Pest Management provides pest control services for a broad spectrum of structures including homes, commercial buildings, and industrial facilities. Although homes get most of the attention from people as far as pest control is concerned, those at this Overland Park, KS-based company say it's just as important to perform pest control services at commercial and industrial sites. They even took the time to explain the reasons why industrial and commercial building pest control is so important.

The owner/operator, Luis Gonzalez, says, "We would not be considered to be a reputable and responsible pest management company if we did not acknowledge the importance of our commercial and industrial pest control services. They are especially important for businesses that handle and distribute foods such as restaurants and warehouses. All it takes is something like a minor rat infestation at a food distribution center or a major bed bug problem at a hotel to wreak havoc on a business. This is why we are always ready to help our commercial and industrial customers out with a variety of effective pest management services."

Gonzalez went on to say that there are several reasons why industrial and commercial property managers and owners should never overlook the value of getting competent pest control services done regularly. The first is the amount of damage that rodents and insects can cause to any business. This can be caused by both direct damage and contamination. The subsequent product loss from these occurrences can cause a business owner to suffer substantial financial setbacks. The owner/operator even mentioned that diseases spread by rodents, flies, mosquitoes, and others can impact employee health which, in turn, can impact company productivity as well. Businesses that show signs of rodent or insect infestations often project a negative image to customers and others that visit that business too. Gonzalez pointed out that they perform all of their industrial and commercial pest control services in accordance with state health department regulations and they even offer businesses free pest inspections and evaluations. He added that these evaluations not only will address current pest issues a business property owner is facing but at the same time they will also propose a strategy for long-term pest management on that property. Their specialty rodent control measures even include an unprecedented 2-year guarantee.

The company has also been the recipient of many 5-star reviews on their GMB Listing for their industrial and commercial pest control work. Sheila Isern writes, "We received a complete inspection of the premises, inside and outside, then chose to book a treatment service. Their technician arrived early and did a thorough job. He was extremely personable and professional. This service is the best. They instantly recognize all different kinds of pests and have a choice of plans they can recommend. We feel sure that all of our concerns were not only addressed but met. Thanks, Midway!" Vicente Silva proclaimed, "Amazing company to service your pest control needs from business to your home. They are very professional and always on time. Luis the owner and his crew are amazing! not to mention Nicholas one of their techs, is the one that you want to do the service!" They are one of the rare companies that carry a 5 out of 5-star average rating on their Google Maps Business Listing when over 100 reviews have been written on them.

Gonzalez stated that they not only have targeted pest management services that will eliminate such pests as bed bugs and rodents, but they also can remove problematic raccoons, squirrels, and bats. They can even help eliminate the damage that is typically caused by roosting birds such as pigeons and help control termite populations as well.
