Auto detailing is the cleaning, polishing, and finishing of a car such as it is presentable for personal and professional use. Some auto detailers take their craft to the level of preparing the car to be presented at an automobile show. There are varying quality levels of detailing and it takes experience to understand exactly what the customer wants and the demands of the job based on the condition of the vehicle. Auto detailing is aimed at making the car look flawless, ironing out its imperfections to the satisfaction of the owner of the car. Auto detailing increases the lifespan of a car and even nets the owner a higher value in the resale market.

Exterior detailing involves the restoration and cleaning of the finish on the car's surface. This process has to do with a glossy finish. It is the process of making the car look like it is new.

on the exterior of the vehicle, including the tires, the wheels, the windows, and even the chrome trim. When handling the exterior, many techniques and products are used and they are usually based on the surface of the vehicle as well as the condition. It is important to do with the preference of the detailer. Products used include isopropyl alcohol, wax, detail clay, detergent, and foam-degreaser. All these have a role and they may be included in some cases. For thorough work, including wheels, brakes and all sorts of finishing are needed.

D.I. Auto Care says that the exterior of the vehicle is the first thing you see and seen many times of the day. The company says that the right way to maintain and unmask the vehicle by buffing and polishing the auto's exterior.
