Sharp Tack Media, a major web design agency based in Portland, expands its services to provide high conversion marketing solutions to the nearby Bend area. Using the latest trends in digital marketing, the services are exemplary for business owners and anyone else interested in increasing site traffic and improving customer conversion rates.

The expansion is a response to Bend's travel advisories that have encouraged a halt to non-essential and out-of-state travels. Moreover, the most recent announcement of Deschutes County has placed the community under extreme level of risk for CoVID 19 spread.

The announcement also led to recreational facilities closing and activities getting cancelled. Restaurants, grocery stores, pharmacies and retail stores have also limited their capacity and shifted to pick up and delivery options.

These implemented measures led Bend residents to stay local. The county also recommended utilizing guidelines such as checking shop or restaurant websites and calling them prior to any visit to verify hours and requirements.

Sharp Tack Media is a small business web design and branding firm that specializes in helping small and medium businesses create and grow their web presence using exceptional branding and marketing strategies. The firm is homegrown in Portland and has an established authority in the nearby areas. The company's offerings should be especially attractive to the local Bend web design audience of small businesses.

The company provides a range of different choices for organizations in all phases of the process and all budgets, depending on the size of the project. Customers also admire the website protection and management solutions of the organization that use up-to-date security protocols and include daily blog reports, ecommerce goods updates, general site updates, and maintenance.
