September 15, 2015 -

Charlotte, North Carolina based legal company, Meek Law Firm, has announced a new suite of business services designed for area business owners. The law firm has years of experience in the area, providing individual and business law assistance, but has recently expanded to offer a number of additional services for area businesses.

Jonathan Meek, founder and attorney at the legal firm, released a statement saying that, "We've decided to offer a new set of services that are specifically designed for business owners. From trademark violations to forming a limited liability corporation, we will be able to help any business owner with his legal needs."

In addition to business law, Meek is also a family attorney in Charlotte, NC, and has experience in a number of litigation and civil law cases. The law firm Charlotte NC urges businesses to seriously consider legal representation on setup, just to rule out any issues that some business owners may not be aware of.

"Some people just have no idea what business law entails," states Meek. "They may have a great idea for a business, but just not have any clue about how to turn that business into a legal entity. We're here to help with that and more."

As a qualified and experienced business attorney Charlotte NC, Meek states that his team can handle a number of business issues. The firm says that it is important to always consult with an attorney to ensure that the proper licensing requirements have been met, in addition to understanding tax laws. Meek states that many businesses are not aware of tax consequences that may exist, and that this can often lead to troubles down the road for the business.

Meek served in the United States Marine Corps prior to receiving his law degree. He earned a Bachelor of Science in Political Science in 2004, and spent two years working in finance before attending the Charlotte School of Law, where he obtained his degree in 2007. He passed the North Carolina Bar Exam in 2010, and has been practicing in Mecklenburg County, assisting businesses and individuals with legal aid since that time.
