Town + Country acknowledges that, in the newest update to the new Volkswagen range, all models will be equipped with the automaker?s new MIB3 infotainment system. This means that features such as Emergency Assist and Travel Assist will be available in all the new models.

Town + Country also highlights that Travel Assist allows for partially automated hands-on driving and Emergency Assist will monitor a driver?s attentiveness and stop the vehicle if it detects that the driver is in incapacitated. The MIB3 infotainment system also includes features such as the wireless App-Connect with multi-phone pairing and enhanced voice recognition, as well as illuminated USB-C input connector. ?Volkswagen?s 2021 lineup will be more connected than ever before,? says Hein Schafer, Senior Vice President, Product Marketing and Strategy for Volkswagen of America, Inc.

The dealership is also keen to comment on many of the new designs in the 2021 range. For example, the 2021 Arteon model has been completely redesigned. The 2021 Atlas too is now available in eight trim levels. The Atlas Cross Sport too will be available in eight trim levels and features the MIB3 infotainment system as well. For the 2021 model of the Volkswagen Jetta, the vehicle will be available in five trims, namely the Comfortline, Highline, Exwcline and Rline models as well as a GLI trim.
