Unity Spine And Joint Is Offering Chronic Pain Treatment In Indianapolis

January 22, 2021

Tempe, Arizona - January 22, 2021 -
Unity Physician Services, a center for pain relief and pain management, is offering its chronic pain treatment in Indianapolis. The center?s team of doctors, physicians, and chiropractors use the latest technology to help those suffering from long term pain due to spine and joint issues.

The center maintains that its aim is to get to the underlying conditions that cause its patients pain and healing them from the core. Its treatments help patients find relief, heal from often debilitating pain, and reduce the stress associated with a long term ailment. The center claims it is able to achieve its goals by implementing methodologies not found in traditional practices such as diagnostic testing, medical procedures, chiropractic therapy, physical exercise modalities, and more. Its methods are especially useful for those who have been in auto accidents recently or in the past and are suffering from the residual pain of that incident for a long time.

The center says that when someone is in an auto accident, the effect of the damage to the body may not manifest immediately. There might not be any pain in the short term, but if left untreated, it can cause long-term problems. Collisions can cause the spine to go out of its natural balance, resulting in dull pains in the back and neck, muscle spasms, headaches, and other symptoms that may interfere with the patient?s daily life and activities.

A lot of accident victims might be wary of seeking treatment because of the fear of surgery or due to the choice of medication as a form of pain management. This myopic view of the accident and its effects on the body will come back to hurt the patient further down the road. Unity Physician Services says it will create an individualized plan for specific problems with natural treatments for pain. The clinic says they provide its patients with the best chiropractors in Indianapolis to diagnose and treat their pain.

A spokesperson for the clinic, Dr. Thomas Morgan, says, ?Unity Physician Services provides a full-service concierge service committed to helping providers, and their patients, reduce stress, be happier, and live better lives. We practice responsible pain management and pain relief. We have a broad array of services and specialties not commonly found in typical pain management practices. This enables us to provide you with the correct diagnostic testing, medical procedures, chiropractic, and physical exercise modalities.?

A review of the clinic by Amy C. says, ?The staff is super friendly and helpful. Dr. Carson is very knowledgeable and explains everything in depth so you understand what needs to be done.?
