September 15, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

BinaryOptionBot2.com announced today that it has released the new version of Gary Davies' Option Bot Software to help traders improve their performance with binary options. Option Bot 2.0 offers predictive software designed to facilitate binary options trading in currency pairs. The application carries out the technical analysis required for foreign exchange (forex) trading, using sophisticated algorithms to predict the trends which the currency pairs will take.

"The goal is to help the user place a trading order with some degree of certainty," said Ziga Breznik of BinaryOptionBot2.com. "The reality is that binary options can be quite scary, especially for beginners. This tool helps rebalance the advantage back in favor of the trader. It's designed to help newer traders do better earlier in the learning curve than they might on their own."

Option Bot 2.0 builds on the success of its predecessor, which was released in 2012 and led traders to achieve elevated success rates. A downloadable application, Option Bot 2.0 is compatible with Windows, iOS and Linux. It also provides direct integration with forex brokers. This capability enables traders to place purchase orders instantaneously. Option Bot 2.0 allows up to 12 brokerage accounts to be connected to the application, giving users a wide range of latitude in assigning buy orders.

Historically, trading in binary options meant excelling in sophisticated analysis, a time consuming and extremely costly experience. Davies' software streamlines this process with a predictive algorithm that tracks the progress of a currency pair. It predicts future trends for the pair based on previous behavior, which is similar to the way sophisticated forex traders work.

The software comes with free training and customer support via chat, email or phone. For more information, visit <http://binaryoptionbot2.com>.
