NJ Center For CoolSculpting is offering its CoolSculpting services for clients in the New Jersey area. The clinic is touting the effectiveness of the technique when it comes to reducing the double chin problem. The clinic is run and managed by doctors Monika Soni MD and Hardik Soni MD.

CoolSculpting is a body contouring technique that targets fat in stubborn areas. The procedure freezes fat cells using a cooling technique called cryolipolysis. These fat cells are just underneath the skin. After the procedure, the body flushes out the frozen fat cells naturally as they die. The procedure can take place in as little as one hour with no surgery and no downtime required. The results from this technique are known to last a long time giving patients great returns for a simple procedure that hardly takes an hour to complete.

The procedure is FDA-approved to target areas of the body where fat deposits easily. These areas of the body are home to ?stubborn fat? as it can be very difficult to lose the fat deposited in those areas. They are the love handles, upper and lower abdomen, underarms, thighs, underneath the buttocks (banana rolls), the bra line, and the back. The procedure is best suited for clients who are already near their target weight and need to shave off the extra bit of fat from the harder areas. Ideally, the participant should be within 20 to 30 pounds of their target weight. The participant should not be pregnant or plan to get pregnant because there is no way to predict how pregnancy will change the shape of the body. Subjects should also be in general good health and have at least an inch of excess fat in the target areas. Clients can follow the clinic on its Facebook page to find out more about the procedure.

The double chin appearance that occurs due to fat deposition is not desirable. It adds age to the facial profile. Sometimes, it is also very difficult to lose that fat no matter how hard the patient exercises or maintains a good diet. Genetics also tends to play an enormous role and there is no control over where the fat deposits on the body. For patients who have done their best, CoolSculpting is an excellent option to clear out the fat from that last difficult area. Usually, it takes one or two treatments to achieve the desired goal. The treatment creates a slimmer, flatter, younger, looking profile with a contoured neckline. The excess fat cells dissipate over the course of a few months.

When asked about the CoolSculpting procedure Dr. Hardik Soni says "CoolSculpting is the number one non-surgical fat-reduction treatment in the world with over 6 million treatments already performed worldwide. We have a lot of experience ourselves with the procedure here at Ethos Spa Skin and Laser Center. When you come to us, you are going to get the best possible treatment for the part of the body that you want to target. We look at every patient on a case by case basis. We talk to you about your health goals and ensure that our procedures are the best match for them. We don't force a one size fits all solution. It is this personalized attention to detail and thoroughness that has made us popular with our clients and keeps them coming back."

CoolSculpting is very different from plastic surgery such as breast reduction or facelift. CoolSculpting is non-surgical, pain-free, and requires no downtime. There is no scarring as it is a completely non-invasive procedure. CoolSculpting is not a weight-loss technique. According to the clinic, CoolSculpting is often also confused for other procedures such as a tummy tuck or liposuction. A tummy tuck is a surgical procedure that removes fat, loose skin, and tightens the muscles while liposuction is a plastic surgery procedure where small incisions are made and a wand is inserted to suck fat out of the body. CoolSculpting is different from both of those procedures as it only requires the removal of fat.

The clinic can be contacted using the details on its GMB listing.
