February 08, 2021 -
Chicago, IL based Express STD Testing is pleased to announce that they are offering at-home STD tests for those who want a convenient and private method to get STD tests done. With same day STD tests available and over 4,500 testing centers, Express STD Testing is dedicated to providing their community with an easy way to keep tabs on their health.

Jack Lombardi, a representative for Express STD Testing, says ?It is very important to make sure that you have control over your sexual health, and a critical part of that is knowing your STD status. Express STD Testing offers everyone the option to go through that testing process safely, and more importantly, conveniently.?

The company assures the community that their tests and testing processes are 100% safe, both approved and cleared by the FDA. The numerous testing centers Express STD Testing uses are CLIA-certified. As these sites are situated throughout the country, the company can ensure that an individual can get their STD tests done quickly no matter where they reside. The company states that their priority is to provide accurate STD testing while safeguarding their clients? privacy. As such, any and all medical information will be safe with them throughout the testing process.

Getting an STD test done through Express STD Testing is a simple and straightforward process. An individual need only purchase an STD test (either via phone or the company?s website). Once the order goes through, they can then visit one of the company?s 4,500+ testing locations in order to get the test done on the same day. Test results are typically processed within 24-72 hours of the visit, and users can easily access their results online through a secure patient login portal.

Express STD Testing states that their test panel is comprehensive enough to account for all common STDs, such Herpes simplex virus 1 and 2, hepatitis A, hepatitis B, and hepatitis C, gonorrhea, chlamydia, syphilis and HIV 1 and 2. However, they also offer more comprehensive options for anyone who wants to cover all of their bases. The company is also proud to state that their rates tend to be more affordable than what most clinics and hospitals charge.

Lombardi says, ?We all know how difficult it is to decide to get tested for STDs. After this, the process is not a walk through the park either. This is why we have simplified the testing process to make sure there is no stress for you. You will not have to fill any papers or answer any uncomfortable questions. You just walk into a testing center, leave your sample and wait for the results. You will only spend a couple of minutes in the testing center, and no one will know why you are there.? The company also guarantees privacy. All of the information provided to Express STD Testing is protected through HIPAA privacy laws.

While Express STD Testing does not accept insurance as part of their efforts to protect their users? health information, they have done all they can to simplify the testing process further and provide a variety of different payment options. The company accepts major credit cards, cashier check, PayPal, Health Savings Account, Flex Spending Accounts and even pre-paid debit and gift cards.

Lombardi says, ?When you choose Express STD Testing?s services, you can rest assured that you will be getting a fast and convenient STD testing service with no hoops to jump through. In the event your results turn out to be positive, you will have access to a number of doctors and specialists who can guide you through the next steps. The doctors will prescribe the right treatment for the infection and send it to pharmacies near you. If need be, the doctor can also refer you to a specialist for more specialized treatment. Take charge of your sexual health and be a part of the fight against STDs. Get tested today.?
