Napolin Accident Injury Lawyer is pleased to announce that they are offering personal injury lawyer services in Glendora, CA, and neighboring areas. Personal injury law is involved with injury that was caused by the wrongful conduct of a person, business, or entity. According to California state law, when a person's wrongful behavior results in an injury, the injured party has the legal right to seek damages. A certain act or conduct may be considered wrongful under a number of theories, including intentional acts to cause harm to another person or careless acts that can reasonably be expected to cause a certain kind of harm to another person. Furthermore, negligence may not only be found in motor vehicle accidents. It may also be found in slip and fall accidents in commercial establishments, faulty or unsafe products, dog bites, and more.

Alexander D. Napolin, an experienced personal injury lawyer and head of Napolin Accident Injury Lawyer Glendora, says, "To best protect yourself from losing important legal rights, it is important to consult with an attorney as soon as possible. Our law firm handles all different types of personal injury law cases and provides free case evaluation for those who call. We offer a free case evaluation for those who call us. We accept cases on a contingency fee basis, which means our legal fees would be a percentage of recovery. And when we accept a case, you don't have to pay anything unless money is collected on your behalf."

Auto accidents are a common cause of personal injury and those who find themselves to be victims of car accidents may want to consult with an accident injury lawyer. Accident victims need to realize that the insurance adjuster of the insurance company of the person responsible for the accident is not on the side of the victim. The adjuster will always be on the side of the insurance company and will therefore find a way to minimize the compensation provided.

It is also important to remember that the length of existence and past successes of a law firm does not necessarily guarantee success. There are many other factors that will determine whether a particular case will be successful or not. It is important for the case to be assessed properly and then timely prosecuted in a manner that will enhance the client's overall well-being.

Since opening his law firm in 2011, Attorney Napolin has focused on establishing the reputation of his firm as a well-rounded accident injury lawsuit law firm in California. This reputation is measured not just by the amount of money that the firm was able to collect for clients but by the success stories that clients experience when he applies his one-of-a-kind method and philosophy to their case. He has created an effective formula of success for client-attorney relationships that have led each and every case to success.
