Senior Care Center is a free online resource that helps families find long-term care facilities for their elderly loved ones in Mountain View, California. The center is now offering help for those looking for memory care facilities. The center's services can be read in detail at <https://srcarecenter.com/locations/senior-care-in-mountain-view/>.

Memory care facilities are senior homes with special accommodations for those suffering from dementia and related conditions that cause cognitive loss in older people. They are designed to keep residents safe and comfortable in a familiar environment. The facility is under 24/7 supervision. This gives family members peace of mind to know that their loved ones are taken care of by the best possible measures. The facility runs structured programs and routines that are meant to keep seniors active. This promotes a healthy, balanced lifestyle while minimizing wandering behavior. The staff members are specifically trained in the pitfalls of handling someone with dementia.

Alzheimer's affects more than 5 million Americans regardless of age. More than eighty percent of those suffering from Alzheimer's are aged 75 or above and shockingly 1 in 10 people 65 and older have Alzheimer's dementia. It is estimated that by 2050, the number of people with Alzheimer's dementia 65 and above is projected to be 13.8 million. There are no known cures and the progression of the disease is uncertain. It is the fifth leading cause of death amongst those 65 and older with an average life of 4 to 8 years after an Alzheimer's dementia diagnosis. Dementia leads to loss of mental reasoning, mobility, and muscle control. Apart from Alzheimer's, there are different types of dementia such as vascular dementia, dementia with Lewy bodies, frontotemporal dementia, Pick's disease, Creutzfeldt-Jakob disease, Korsakoff syndrome, mixed dementia, and normal pressure hydrocephalus.

Memory care facilities offer amenities such as dining services which provide 3 meals for the residents taking into consideration their dietary needs and restrictions. There are laundry facilities for clean laundry and changed linens. Personal aides and nurses will help residents with eating, drinking, walking, companionship, and other tasks. Memory care homes will have scheduled social programs and activities such as art classes, game nights, and holiday parties. There are 24-hour security systems and emergency call systems to help keep residents safe from accidents. General maintenance, housekeeping, and cleaning services are provided so residents can rest and relax. Structured activities and therapy programs specifically designed to help those with memory loss. Facilities will have medical staff available to administer medication as well as treatment if needed. Memory care homes are also typically designed to help memory loss residents to familiarize themselves with the environment to lessen wandering behavior.

Senior Care Center offers its services to those looking to find homes for their loved ones but don't know where to begin. The center's website describes 3 easy steps towards finding the perfect home. The first step is to reach out to them via a phone call. The center's website has an inquiry form that requires a zipcode as an input which can be used to find senior care homes nearby and contact information for local advisors. Once in touch with the senior care advisor, they will be available for a one-on-one consultation call. The senior care advisor will take the time out to listen to the family's situation, answer any questions, or address any concerns that they may have. The family will be asked to provide details such as medical history, dietary needs and restrictions, religious or cultural preferences, location preferences, and budgeting. Once all the information has been provided, the senior care advisor will provide a list of homes and facilities that best suits the family's needs. Then the advisor will schedule tours at the facilities and accompany the family on tours to make them comfortable. The goal is to find the perfect place to call home. The advisor may also offer move-in support after the final location has been selected.

Senior Care Center can be reached at the phone number (855) 430-0035 for more information.
