

Top Online Music School for Guitarists, Bassists, and Producers

February 11, 2021

Duluth, Georgia - February 11, 2021 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

The Atlanta Institute of Music and Media has unveiled the Online Certificate in Music and Technology program with a concentration on guitar and bass. The Nationally Accredited online music school offers the certificate to provide its students with the necessary music education without having to visit the institute personally to further their musical and recording and engineering abilities and prepare for the expectations of the industry.

AIMM's online program caters to intermediate instrumentalists who dream of expanding their knowledge in the field of recording and engineering and explore opportunities in the ever-changing music industry. The online certificate course in music and technology is 100% online and allows students the opportunity to master their instrument of choice and learn valuable music production techniques.

The course promises to give students all the tools, training, and experience to be a confident and intelligent musician, producer, or live sound engineer with a deep understanding of the industry.

Students also have the opportunity of job placement upon graduation. A career placement specialist at AIMM is designated to assist students in writing a powerful resume and explore in-field employment opportunities. AIMM students get an opportunity to enroll in online courses that teach beneficial music production techniques, which include mixing, recording, and mastering.

As an AVID Pro Tools Music Institute, AIMM provides the best insider techniques when it comes to recording, mixing, and mastering music. AIMM's online students have an excellent opportunity to learn the music production techniques utilized by top producers and engineers in the industry.

AIMM is proud of its alumni that have written their success stories in the music industry and are associated with big brands. This includes Kesha Lee, who earned a Grammy for her work with Childish Gambino, and KEYZBABY, who co-produced America's hit song, WAP.

Any music enthusiast interested in elevating their guitar or bass skill and learning valuable music production techniques should enroll in AIMM's Online Certificate in Music and Technology. Additional information can be found on AIMM's website.
