?The most important thing after an auto accident is your health,? and a medical professional can properly evaluate, diagnose, and treat injuries right away. The type of treatment depends on the type and severity of injuries. While some victims may need to see an emergency room doctor, another might need a chiropractor, depending on the extent of injuries.

The car accident treatment clinic in Nashville advises that a primary care doctor or a family physician might not be the best person to see after an accident, emphasizing the need to see a specialist instead. The blog post highlights the risk of seeing a general physician, who might not be able to diagnose car accident injuries properly and try to mask the pain with painkillers.

Some family doctors are not interested to "see patients after car accidents because they aren't set up to bill auto insurance companies,? states the Nashville car accident clinic, advising victims to visit the ER or a car accident chiropractor to get treatment right away.
