Congressional Candidate, Jack Lombardi, to Attend CPAC

February 22, 2021

February 22, 2021 -
LaSalle County, Illinois -- Republican congressional candidate, Jack Lombardi, will be attending the Conservative Political Action Conference (CPAC) from February 25-28, 2021. The event will be held in Orlando, Florida.

Lombardi recently declared his candidacy for the 2022 race for the Illinois 16th Congressional District in the U.S. House of Representatives. That seat is currently held by Republican Adam Kinzinger. Representative Kinzinger voted in January 2021 to impeach President Donald Trump. Kinzinger also encouraged the members of the Senate to convict Trump and bar President Trump from ever holding federal elective office in the future. Jack Lombardi is extremely opposed to Kinzinger?s recent actions. Kinzinger?s actions played a significant role in Lombardi?s decision to challenge Kinzinger in the 2022 election.

Lombardi describes himself as a patriot, Christian, family man, entrepreneur, and conservative. He is a supporter of the Second Amendment, law enforcement personnel, the military, and first responders. Mr. Lombardi opposes the recent efforts to censor and silence conservative voices on social media. He is the CEO and founder of an internet marketing company. He is a strong advocate of free speech, both on the internet and in all other public forums.

Lombardi is looking forward to the CPAC event and the opportunity to interact with fellow conservatives. His campaign is part of a grassroots movement to elect more conservatives to Congress in 2022. In recent weeks, Lombardi?s social media following has increased dramatically. He is hopeful that those social media followers will also become volunteers and financial supporters for his campaign.

CPAC (The Conservative Political Action Conference) was founded in 1974 by the American Conservative

Union and the Young Americans for Freedom. It started out as a small gathering of dedicated conservatives. It has grown into one of the largest and most closely watched annual political events in the United States. It is attended by numerous conservative activists and conservative elected officials. The event attracts prominent speakers, presenters, and candidates. Lombardi is excited to be attending this year?s event.
