Reason to Smile Dental of Salt Lake City offers a wide variety of cosmetic dentistry services. Among the most popular of them is the attachment of veneers. These are thin, tooth-shaded shells that attach to the outward-facing surface of teeth that do such things as hiding tooth imperfections. Dental veneers present a less-invasive and affordable way to improve the appearance of one?s smile. The clinic?s founding dentist, Dr. Andrew M. Vernon, is highly regarded when it comes to doing tooth veneer treatments.

Dr. Vernon says, ?I have many patients that come to me with teeth imperfections that make them continuously try to hide their smiles. As a dentist, there is nothing sadder to me. Fortunately, many fine cosmetic dental treatments have been perfected over the years that can help give anyone a reason to smile again. One of these is the use of veneers. They do a great job of enhancing the outward appearance of a patient?s smile without them having to go through more invasive procedures. That?s why they have become one of the most popular smile enhancing treatments at my Utah clinic. I am always happy to sit down with any patient that is considering getting veneers and talk to them about what?s involved in the process of attaching them and the approximate cost of having that treatment done.?

The clinic?s founder went on to take more about veneers and how they are attached. He stated that veneers usually come in one of two forms. These are resin-composite and porcelain veneers. Dr. Vernon says resin-composite veneers tend to be cheaper but they usually will not last as long as veneers are made out of porcelain. It was also mentioned by him that veneers are applied in two different ways. One of them is a veneer that takes no prep work before attaching and others require some reshaping of the tooth before attachment. The clinic?s founder also pointed out some of the reasons that patients request dental veneers from them. Among these reasons are patients that have chipped or broken teeth, teeth with severe discolorations, or colorings that can?t be resolved by whitening treatments. Veneers are also recommended for those with gaps in their teeth, have one or more smaller-than-average teeth, or have unusually shaped or pointed teeth. He added that they have had great success improving patient?s smiles with their veneer attachments.
