United Water Restoration Group, an Ormond Beach, Florida based company, has recently announced their accreditation by the Better Business Bureau. The company provides water damage restoration to homes and businesses in the Ormond Beach area.

The BBB sets standards for trust in the marketplace. Earning accreditation from the Bureau means that the company consistently adheres to high standards of ethical business practices. Businesses included on the list of accredited companies typically earn customer trust more than those that are not included.

According to BBB reports by Princeton Research, seven in ten customers say they are more likely to buy from a company designated as a BBB Accredited Business. BBB is a resource for the public, providing objective, unbiased information about businesses.

Jonathan Ranney, spokesperson for the company, said, "Pleased to be accredited by the BBB. We value building trustworthy relationships with our customers, and this just helps to show that we mean what we say, when we say that we always have our customers' best interests at heart."

Businesses that earn the BBB's accreditation are held to a high standard set of policies and procedures, and must adhere to their best practices in running their business. The standards maintain that businesses included are trustworthy, maintain their integrity in both advertising and services, and honor their promises to customers at all times.

"We have always tried to maintain integrity in our business dealings," states Jonathan Ranney. "We will continue to treat our customers as we always have, with the utmost respect."
