

Pembroke Pines Lawn Care Specialists Seeing Increased Demand for their Lawn Pest Control Treatments

March 12, 2021

Pembroke Pines, Florida - March 12, 2021 -

EPS Landscaping & Tree Service LLC is a popular option for lawn care services in the Pembroke Pines, FL area. One of their services that's experiencing an uptick in demand is their lawn pest control service. They state this is not surprising as an increased number of hardy insect species seem to show up more regularly in Southeastern Florida locations. This company decided to offer lawn pest control solutions because it realizes that unchecked pest problems can pose big problems when it comes to keeping a lawn healthy and looking good.

Greg O'Connell, the company's co-founder, says, "The weather here in Pembroke Pines is perfect for enjoying outdoor activities and going to the beach a majority of the time during the year. Unfortunately, this fine weather pattern also makes Southeastern Florida a prime habitat for many different types of lawn insects. Some of which can wreak severe havoc on a yard if steps are not taken to control them. That is why we have become specialists at performing lawn pest control applications. We have the know-how, equipment, and environmentally-friendly treatments necessary to handle any type of yard pest problem."

The company co-owner listed off some of the pests that are commonly found in Broward County lawns that can create big problems for home and business owners. This includes tiny and black hour-glass-shaped Chinch Bugs which not only eat the sap from grasses but their saliva when injected into the grass during feeding tends to cause widespread damage. He added that they use a combination of yard dethatching and preventative applications to control them. Also mentioned by him were Sod Webworms. These are tanned colored small moths whose presence is often detected with them being stirred up by mowing. Their larvae that feed on grass can be very destructive. O'Connell also mentioned Billbugs whose larvae are better known as grubs. Grubs continual feeding on grasses will eventually cause large patches of dead spots in a lawn. The company has treatments that are effective at controlling both Sod Webworms and Billbugs.

O'Connell also talked about how treatment applications are not the only way to control yard insect problems. He stated that having a well-maintained and healthy lawn discourages infestation and enables grasses and other vegetation to better fight off the impact that insects can have on them. The use of local grass species and proper lawn watering helps. Some of the lawn maintenance services that EPS Landscaping & Tree offers can also be beneficial. Dethatching was already mentioned and aeration can also be very helpful when it comes to controlling insect populations in a landscape setting. He says they are always happy to explain to Pembroke Pines home and business owners how some of their lawn maintenance and pest control services can combine to control the spread of unwanted insects in their landscape settings. The company owner went on to say that they are proud to offer many lawn and tree services besides just pest control. This includes them being specialists when it comes to designing, installing, and maintaining irrigation systems. He added that they also are excellent at building water features and creating dynamic-looking poolscapes and outdoor living spaces. Their many tree services include trimming, pruning, tree removal, and stump grinding. O'Connell mentioned that they are also experts when it comes to doing such lawn services as mowing, edging, and fertilization. Many of the essential lawn services they offer can be incorporated into affordable yard maintenance plans too.

No matter what type of tree or lawn services that EPS Landscaping & Tree provides to a customer, those customers claim to be highly satisfied with that service.
