The Athens, Ga, personal injury law firm has a proven track record of handling TBI cases for many years, helping victims receive the deserving compensation for damages. The top personal injury attorneys have the experience and resources to represent victims against the negligent party.

The Brown Firm explains that a traumatic brain injury can be severely debilitating and cause severe physical trauma, which requires frequent hospital visits and medical care. The most common cause of a TBI is from falling, followed by car accidents. If the fall or car crash causing a TBI was due to someone else's negligence, then the victim's medical bills and pain and suffering should be compensated.

Harry W. Brown, the managing attorney at The Brown Firm, is a trusted attorney as well as a licensed chiropractor. "I'm one of the few attorneys who is also a medical practitioner," Harry commented, "so I know how to work with other attorneys, healthcare providers, and insurance companies to get the best possible outcome for my clients."

Harry emphasizes the need for a medical diagnosis immediately after the accident. "If you were recently in an accident or believe you may have suffered a traumatic brain injury, medical treatment should be your top priority. Symptoms could become worse and permanent damage may be sustained if you go too long without seeking the treatment you need."

Sports injuries, car accidents, truck crashes, motorcycle wrecks, and slip and fall accidents are the most common causes of TBI. The Brown Firm personal injury attorneys in Athens, GA, represent TBI victims for accidents caused by someone else's negligence.
