

Pain Management Clinic Discusses the Reasons to Pursue Regenerative Medicine in Tempe

March 29, 2021

Tempe, Arizona - March 29, 2021 -

Unity Spine & Joint is well-known in Arizona for its progressive pain management treatments. Among the newest of these treatments are what has become known as regenerative medicine. Regenerative medicine includes newer and more advanced treatments that are designed to rejuvenate, repair or replace cells in the body that have been damaged by injury and disease. Dr. Thomas Morgan, physician at the clinic, wanted to discuss in more detail the reasons why those in pain should consider looking at getting regenerative medicine in Tempe treatments done.

Dr. Morgan says, "We are always open to learning cutting-edge treatments that have a good chance of speeding healing and lessening or eliminating chronic pain. This is why we were so eager to bring staff members on board who specialize in regenerative medicine and advance our training in his medical field too. Some of the results that we and other clinics have witnessed in regards to regenerative medicine have been very amazing and we feel that with time it's only going to get better. That's also the reason why I wanted to talk a little bit more about why chronic pain sufferers and others should look into getting treatments done that are based on regenerative medicine."

The clinic's founder continued by saying that what he likes about regenerative medicine treatments is that they are done by addressing the root cause of pain, mobility issues, and other health problems. This is much different than many other types of therapies which use treatments that tend to alleviate symptoms but do not promote long-term results because they are not correcting underlying conditions. He says that most of the time more time-tested methods of treatment have focused on the use of drugs and other medicines to soothe over pain without always getting lasting results. This leads to another benefit of regenerative medicine because it frees people up from using pharmaceuticals and being exposed to their all too common side effects. Dr. Morgan added that another plus of using regenerative medicine treatments is that there are so many of them. This allows their staff to tailor the treatments to each patient's specific healing needs. He went on to say that the human body has impressive healing mechanisms and regenerative medicine brings these to the forefront. Regenerative medicine also does not rely on invasive surgeries to help with a patient's pain and heal. That means there are no long recovery periods necessary after receiving the progressive medical treatments.

According to Dr. Morgan, they have had great success with the other reputable treatments they offer too. This includes the use of chiropractic therapy, physical medicine modalities, and trigger point injections. He says their patients have also had favorable results using their medial branch block, radiofrequency neuroablation, and nerve block treatments. Newer treatments at Unity Spine & Joint also include low-dose steroid injections and male testosterone therapy. The clinic's founder stated that the success of these treatments is the main reason why so many who are suffering from pain relating to automobile accidents seek help from them.

Most of the patients who have received treatments at Unity Spine & Joint have nothing but good things to say about them. Sean Harding wrote, "Great place. I have been using their services as needed for over a year. I really like having everything under one roof." Jerilyn Pacariem stated, "This staff is amazing. They are so informative, friendly, and are willing to answer any questions we have. They specialize in pain and hormone replacement. We are grateful we have found a place like this and highly recommend it to anyone." These reviews were taken from the clinic's Google Maps Business listing where they are rated an admirable 4.7 out of 5-stars on over 100 reviews.
